Savage Administration Overwhelms Opposition In General Elections

Alberta C.C.F. Congratulates N.Z. Premier

Executives of the Alberta C.C.F. party sent Premier M. J. Savage of New Zealand a cable message of eulogy Saturday for his party's victory in the election in that country. The message praised the premier and his Labor party for the "signal success they had achieved for social reform and peaceful Socialism."

William Irvine, Elmer E. Roper and Miss Mary Crawford, president, secretary and treasurer, respectively of the Alberta C.C.F. party, signed the message.

GAS OUTPUT IN TURNER VALLEY NOW CURTAILED

Conservation Order Reduces Production 74 Million Cubic Feet

CALGARY, Oct. 15.—Court action to have conservation orders of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board declared null and void was dismissed by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives in a judgment issued here today. Powers of the Board were challenged by the Mercury Oils Limited, oil well operators in Turner Valley.

CALGARY, Oct. 15—Gas wells in Turner Valley, where millions of cubic feet of gas have been wasted daily, came under a conservation order of the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board today.

Effective at 8 a.m., the order, subject of a court test, a challenge to the powers of the board, reduces daily production to 40,000,000 cubic feet. This is a reduction of 74,000,000 cubic feet, sufficient to supply the industrial needs of three cities the size of Calgary.

Penalties are provided for non-compliance of board orders—a fine of $2,000 and $500 a day for each day an order is not complied with.

There are approximately 100 gas

Government Elects 55 Candidates To House Against 25 Nationalists—Social Reforms Were Principal Issues

WELLINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Labor government of Prime Minister Michael Savage won an overwhelming victory in the New Zealand general election today, electing 55 candidates to the House of Representatives against 25 Nationalists.

In the last election three years ago, when Labor came to power, the party won 52 seats in the House as against 20 for the Nationalists and eight for the Independents. Since that time the Independents lost one seat to Labor.

The Labor government carried through important financial and social reforms in the past three years and these formed the principal issue of the campaign.

"We realize our responsibilities," Prime Minister Savage said in a radio speech, "and will carry them out on principles of construction and not destruction.

"Our only objective is to give everybody a fair deal, to make conditions more equitable and to make life generally much brighter, more purposeful and more serene."

Asking for the good will of the opposition and expressing his gratitude for the election victory, Mr. Savage concluded: "New Zealand's heritage will not suffer under Labor."

Given Large Majorities

Some of the Labor members returned in the cities enjoyed large majorities, especially the prime minister and some of his ministers.

Adam Hamilton, leader of the opposition, retained his seat, as did J. Gordon Coates, former premier.

D. G. McMillan, leading protagonist of the Social Security Act, was returned with a large majority.

One of the candidates to win a seat for the Nationalists was F. W. Doidge, former director of the London Daily Express, who won Taurunga from Labor.

Mrs. Stewart, who won Wellington West for Labor, is the second woman to be returned to the House of Representatives.

Local Citizens Endorse New Zealand's Lead

Social reform's resounding triumph in the New Zealand election which sent the Labor government there back into power with an increased majority—it won 55 out of the 80 seats—elicited enthusiastic comment from local citizens Saturday who saw in the victory proof that progressive social policies are the supreme need of democracy.

Edmonton commentators said that the lessons of New Zealand's reform program, which the International Labor Office at Geneva has called the most advanced in the world, should not be lost upon Canada, and that its example should be emulated here.

Main planks of the government platform which obtained so emphatic an endorsation from electors were:

1—Complete governmental ownership of the Central Bank and the credit and currency system of New Zealand to ensure the maximum utilization and distribution of the nation's resources. This is already operating.

2—A basic minimum weekly wage fixed by government decree of approximately twenty dollars, taking the pound's value as five dollars. In addition, an arbitration court must see that wages allow an adult male worker "to maintain a wife and three children in a fair and reasonable standard of comfort."

3—All citizens in New Zealand are entitled, as of right, to complete, universal, free medical and hospital care from general practitioners. This includes full maternity benefits, as well as special provisions for invalids of a minimum of five dollars per week for an adult incapacitated for work.

4—The 40-hour, five-day working week, without any loss of wages.

5—Old age pensions payable at the age of 60 instead of 70 as in Canada. The pension is more than 1½ times as much as that here. Ultimately every person aged 60 will receive $30 a month if their income is $260 a year or less. A married couple are allowed an additional income of $10 a week, derived from other than government sources. Their old age pensions are in addition to this income.

6—A system of unemployment insurance already in force.

7—The government pays a guaranteed price to dairy farmers—backbone of agriculture in New Zealand—and the price must remain stable the whole year. It also set up a primary products marketing department to handle the export and sale of dairy produce. The government owns all dairy produce intended for export and takes the loss, if any, itself. Profit goes to farmer.

8—Farm hands obtain a month's holiday with pay each year.

CHAMBERLAIN MAY ESTABLISH NEW MINISTRY

Would Supervise Every Aspect Of Civilian Home Defence

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A ministry of national service to supervise every aspect of civilian home defence may be formed by Prime Minister Chamberlain's government.

The scheme will be discussed by the government cabinet meeting Wednesday although it is understood details already are in an advanced stage. One report mentions Sir John Anderson, former under-secretary at the home office, as a likely minister in charge of the new department.

ONE FUNCTION

One function of the new ministry would be to organize men and women for service in time of war.

A national census would supply the government with information on every man and woman, such as age, occupation, physical condition, technical abilities, previous military or other training and the form of national service preferred. They could choose either the territorial army, air raid precautions, auxiliary fire brigades, first aid crews or munitions making.

The register, to be on a voluntary basis, would enable the government to make sure that technical experts would not be wasted on routine jobs. It also would provide a list of key men who would keep jobs in wartime and ensure that men's eagerness to join the fighting forces would not disrupt the essential services.

The King's speech at the state opening of parliament Nov. 8 is expected to foreshadow the necessary legislation which in effect would place services of all men and women at the disposal of the country and would permit their ready allot-

JAPAN TROOPS PUSH ADVANCE INTO WAICHOW

By ELMER PETERSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

HONG KONG, Oct. 15—Japanese troops were reported today to have captured Waichow only 70 miles east of Canton, after smashing through more than 80 villages in their new South China drive from Bias Bay.

The 30-mile drive from Bias Bay was preceded by the heaviest and most destructive air attack ever seen by the Kwangtung Chinese. It left scores of villages and hamlets in ruins. Air raid casualties in Waichow alone were estimated at 1,000.

Japanese forces taking part in the drive so far have operated from Bias Bay, east of Hong Kong. There were reports, however, that additional troops were landing west of Hong Kong.

HITLER WILL MAKE DEMAND FOR COLONIES

French Commentator Says Memorandum Will Be Presented Soon

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Genieve Tabouis reported today in L'Oeuvre (Radical-Socialist) that a memorandum demanding the return of pre-war German colonies will be presented "in these coming days" to Great Britain by Chancellor Hitler.

The well-known commentator on foreign affairs predicted: Great Britain would refuse but might agree to set up a colony for Germany in central Africa, asking a share from France and a slice of Ethiopia from Italy.

CONFERRED ON COLONIES

"Every day recently Hitler has conferred on colonies with General Franz Vonepp (Nazi colonial campaign leader) and most of the colonial governors of the pre-war reich," Mme. Tabouis wrote. "After great hesitation, the Fuehrer is understood to have prepared a memorandum in which he purely and simply calls for a return of all former German colonies which the treaty of Versailles tore from it.

"In this memorandum the Reich declares that it is a question of honor, these colonies having been taken away under the pretext that the Reich did not know how to colonize. The memorandum adds that the old Germany, however, in its possessions never had incidents similar to those which Great Britain now has in Palestine.

PROTESTS MADE

"Protests have already been made by the Dominions, but it would not be impossible that Great Britain should envisage the setting up of a territory in central Africa by means of the co-operation and generosity of all.

"France would be asked for Togoland, and Italy for a zone of Abyssinia (Ethiopia). In this manner it would be easier for Great Britain to ask a contribution from its dominions. But that point is still far off.

"Great Britain cannot take back from its dominions the colonies which were given them."

(South Africa, Australia and New Zealand are the dominions holding League of Nations' mandates over former German colonial territories.)

GENERAL 1-CENT GASOLINE PRICE SLASH REPORTED

HALIFAX, Oct. 15—Highways Minister A. S. MacMillan said today he was informed by Imperial Oil Company officials that a general one-cent reduction in retail gasoline prices had gone into effect throughout Canada.

The reduction, on all grades of gasoline, was attributed to increasing crude oil supplies in the United States and consequent price reductions.

An executive of the Imperial Oil Company in Edmonton stated Saturday morning that no authorization of the one-cent a gallon reduction in gasoline prices had been received at the local office.

Five Army Units Called To Colors Against Czechs

Magyar Troops Organize To Challenge Czechoslovakia In Discussion Over Minority Claim—Hitler Opinion Asked

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15.—Hungary started doubling her army to an estimated 420,000 men today for what officials said was peace, not war.

Mobilization of five classes (age groups) totalling approximately 200,000 youths was called a measure necessary for Hungarian security, "endangered by the continued mobilization of the Czechoslovak army," and the collapse of negotiations on Hungarian demands for parts of Czechoslovakia. The new classes are to report Monday.

Surprise was occasioned by disclosing that the Hungarian army numbered about 220,000 because the post-war Trianon treaty, declared abrogated just two months ago, limited the force to 35,000.

Pester Lloyd said present Hungarian demands included:

1—A decision of the four powers that all Czech territory in which the 1910 census showed a Hungar-

Alberta Department of Agriculture Plans to Assist Those Showing at Royal Winter, Toronto, and Chicago

Determined to continue the enviable record established in winning at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, the provincial government agriculture department has decided this year to give financial and other assistance to exhibitors at the fair and also to exhibitors at the Chicago International Grain and Hay Show, Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, announced on Saturday.

Mr. Mullen announced that in regard to the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto, shipping costs to and from Toronto would be paid, while other assistance is as follows:

Fifty percent of any prize money won; an honorarium of $25 for each first prize in wheat, oats and barley, such honorariums to be increased to $50 in case of a championship being awarded. The only assistance to be given to the junior grain classes will be free transportation of exhibits to and from Toronto, as these exhibitors can prepare a separate exhibit for the open classes if they so desire.

ASSISTANCE PLANNED

Shipping costs to and from Chicago on approved exhibits; prize money in the regular grain sections to be duplicated; exhibitors winning first prizes or championships to be paid a special honorarium of $50 in addition to duplication of prize moneys, such honorarium to be increased to $100 for championships in wheat, oats and barley.

As far as possible the department will give supervision in handling and displaying exhibits at both expositions. Exhibits going forward with shipping costs paid must be approved by an exhibitions com-

NO OFFICIAL FIGURES FOR NEW DEPOSITS

Manning Says Treasury Branch Customers Are Protected

Figures on business transacted at provincial treasury branches or agencies which are published are "pure speculation," and are not given out by treasury branch officials, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary and acting provincial treasurer, stated on Saturday.

"Instructions have been given to the staff at each treasury branch that they are not to give information concerning their business operations or accounts," said Mr. Manning. "We want our depositors to have absolute confidence that their accounts will be treated with secrecy, just as is done at the banks."

GOING SMOOTHLY

Information at the Edmonton treasury branch, which opened on Wednesday was that everything was progressing smoothly.

So far, merchants report, only a small proportion of vouchers issued by treasury branch depositors have made their appearance among merchants. Some firms are deferring action until they hold a general meeting to discuss action, next week.

Some merchants are said to be displaying signs informing the public that they accept treasury branch vouchers.

It was reported on Saturday that on 118 avenue between 93 and [illegible] streets a sign-up of merchants [illegible] per cent strong is expected. Those canvassing the merchants are urging them to accept transfer vouchers.

Woman Leaves 4 Children At Police Station

Complaining bitterly that she "couldn't get relief anywhere" a woman whose name is believed to be Sawchuk walked into the police station at about 11 a.m. Saturday, and told Reg. Jennings that she was going to leave her "four starving children" with the police.

When the sergeant, who expected the woman to wait and make a regulation complaint, looked on the other side of the wicket a moment later, four weeping children, ranging from two to eight years, met his startled gaze, while the woman had gone.

A call to juvenile officers brought W. Murray to the station, and the children were taken to the Children's Shelter to await developments.

Eden Urges Supreme National Effort To Build Up Nation's Defences

BRITONS TOLD TO SINK THEIR DIFFERENCES

Continuance of Present Methods Spells Permanent Inferiority

CARDIFF, Oct. 15. — Anthony Eden last night urged Britons to sink differences of party and class in a supreme national effort to "build up the national defences."

Speaking at a business club, the former foreign secretary asserted "one thing certain is that continuance of our present methods spells permanent inferiority."

Mr. Eden declared he was convinced that "in the position in which we now find ourselves no effort to put our national defences, and all that that implies, socially and economically, on a really secure basis can be wholly successful without the agreement and active support of all classes and parties."

He asked how could the democracies expect "to hold their own in the challenging modern world" unless they showed the same enthusiasm, unity, determination and spirit of sacrifice as the totalitarian states.

"A broadly based national government is the only basis on which our democracy and our institutions, for which we rightly set such store, can stand up to the competition that awaits us," he declared.

Mayor Fry Is Recipient Of Czechoslovak's Gift As Appreciation Token

Shadow of the sorrow which the recent European crisis threw over Czechoslovakia when thousands of Czechs were sent trekking from their homes as Sudetenland was ceded to Hitler fell across Edmonton's Civic block Friday.

An anonymous donor presented Mayor John W. Fry with a striking token of appreciation for the interest he has shown in the Sudeten Czechs in opening a fund for their aid.

BRINGS PARCEL

John Budge, day janitor and elevator man at the Civic block, said that a roughly dressed man who spoke with an "European accent" walked up to him with a parcel and said "Please give this to the mayor."

"Certainly," replied Mr. Budge. "And what is your name so I can tell him who sent it?"

"Name? Never mind the name. Just no name. Just leave it on his desk," replied the man, and as he turned away there were tears in his eyes, Mr. Budge said.

Thinking it might be a plot to blow up the mayor, Mr. Budge held the parcel to his ear to see if, by any chance, it contained a time bomb. There was no sound. He shook it and there was only a faint tinkling. So he took it up and placed it on the desk of Lorette Carrigan, Mayor's secretary.

IS CAUTIOUS

Miss Carrigan gave it to Mayor Fry, who opened it cautiously. Removing the outer wrapping he found two boxes. On one was written in pencil, "From a Sudeten Czech."

Opening the parcels he found six, individually wrapped, delicately fashioned and beautifully colored flowers—masterpieces of Czech glass-workers. In the smaller parcel was a second piece of marvellous glass work.

The moulded glass figure of a cream-colored elephant lifted its glass trunk toward the leafy top of a brown and green glass palm tree. Up the tree, just out of reach of the waving trunk, a glass monkey chatters down mischievously, but a little frightened, at the elephant below.

The flowers and the tableau both have honored places among the ornaments on the mayor's desk.

EXPANSION OF GERMAN TRADE HITS BRITAIN

British Industrial Leaders Face Necessity Of Economic Rearmament

By RADER WINGET

Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 15—German trade expansion on the heels of Nazi political victories in Central Europe is compelling British industrial leaders to face the necessity of economic re-armament.

The business community faces two facts—

1—[illegible] foreign trade will suffer under Germany's robust [illegible].

2—There are few signs of an upturn in home business.

The attack on the foreign trade problem covers three fronts.

RECIPROCAL TRADE

The first consideration is greater trade—especially reciprocal trade—within the empire. Britain in effect says to the Dominions and colonies: "If we buy primary products from you then you must buy manufactured goods from us."

On the second front, Britain wants to have other good customers such as the United States. Soviet Russia and Argentina buy more British goods, with the alternative a cutting down of purchases in these countries.

NEW MARKETS

The third drive is aimed at new markets in competition in many instances with Germany.

Delegates of the British Chamber of Commerce will meet next Wednesday and Thursday to discuss export problems along those lines.

Britain last spring planned a series of loans and credits to central European countries. But Germany gradually offered better terms to the same countries and Britain made little headway.

Today these nations believe they will get just as good business terms from Germany . . . from Great Britain and in addition they will receive political guarantees which Britain—since the Munich four-power conference—is not able to give.

OFFICIALS RESIGNED

British officials at present are resigned to losing their middle European customers, including Czechoslovakia, but they fear Germany may press farther afield.

Already there is talk of complete Turkish-German co-operation in a new Turkish four-year plan. Germany signed a trade agreement with Turkey a week ago, establishing German credit of about $60,000,000 compared to the credit of $80,000,000 given recently by Great Britain. In both cases, as far as is known, the credits must be liquidated through exchange of goods.

There also are reports that Germany ultimately expects to hold the economic balance of power in the near east in collaboration with Italy.

ONE METHOD

One method which might be used to regain the lost ground in foreign trade is progressive depreciation of the pound sterling to create an apparent lowering of prices on British exports.

British export prices are slightly higher than a year ago, while the average cost of the country's imports is considerably lower. That means that British goods often are passed up for lower-priced materials from other countries by foreign buyers.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDY

Some sections, like the coal industry, want a government subsidy to permit underselling abroad, but that would throw a burden on the back of the already overloaded taxpayer.

The reciprocal trade agreement now being negotiated with the United States is counted upon strongly by the government to enlarge the British export market. Some authorities, however, believe the effects of the agreement will not be felt before next spring.

Vigor Imparted To Autumn Recovery

By R. H. HIPPELHEUSER

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—The bustle of men and money returning to work imparted vigor to the autumn recovery trend in United States business this week.

While factory whistles called workers back to jobs in automobile, steel and other industrial plants, Wall Street resounded with the stir of active security markets, buoyed by a rush of idle dollars to employment in stocks and bonds.

RECOVERY COURSE

Stocks on the average rose to the highest level in more than a year. Bonds pursued a recovery course marked out at the end of September after the Munich four-power conference relieved money centres of immediate war fears.

Present cutting of prices on some finished steel products, crude oil and certain manufactured goods, including new automobile models, was considered by analysts as an additional incentive to resumption of postponed buying, both by the ultimate buyer and by processing industries.

DRIVING FORCE

Much of the driving force behind the rise of industrial barometers, it appeared, continued to come from the building field. The Associated Press weekly index of residential building rose to a new peak for recent years at 81.2 compared with 60.2 a year ago.

Nearly all sectors of the business front felt the forward drive.

C.C.F. LEADER SCORES STAND GREAT BRITAIN

Coldwell Asserts Empire Only One-Third Fortified Against Reich

REGINA, Oct. 15.—Germany's proposal that Great Britain limit its air force to one-third the size of that of the Reich was "the attitude of a victorious power speaking to a vanquished enemy," M. J. Coldwell, M.P. for Rosetown-Biggar, national chairman of the C.C.F., declared in a public address here Friday night.

"The present government of Great Britain will never use its armament in the defence of Democracy or of Democratic institutions," Mr. Coldwell declared, "but only to defend great economic interest it feels may be involved.

"Hitler's victory in Czechoslovakia has made him the strongest human figure in the world, and all Munich did was to convince the peoples of the world that aggression pays."

Britain today was looking for a "four-power pact" to stabilize Hitler and Mussolini, he continued, because the present government feared the fall of either one or both these dictators, preference them to advancement of "people's movements" now hidden in both countries.

"Nations today are running like frightened chickens to the shelter of the wings of the successful aggressor," he continued. "Collective fear has replaced collective security and driven them into the arms of the aggressor to obtain a measure of security.

"That, and today's suggestion by Germany, and the warning by Japan against Britain in China, is the price being paid by Great Britain for the torpedoing by the National government of the idea of collective security."

Prime Minister Mackenzie King's telegram of congratulation to Mr. Chamberlain after the Munich settlement committed Canada to support of the Chamberlain policy in Europe, Mr. Coldwell contended.

KOOTENAY LAKE WATER STORAGE GETS SUPPORT

NELSON, B.C., Oct. 15—Application of West Kootenay Power and Light Company to store water in Kootenay Lake by lifting its level six feet was granted Friday by an international joint commission which has held hearings in British Columbia and Idaho.

The application was opposed by a number of Idaho landowners who feared lifting the lake level would damage their holdings by flood.

Granting of the application included certain provisions designed to safeguard the interests of Idaho farmers. Details were not available.

The company wishes to store water in the lake to supplement the low water flow for power purposes. It also wants to widen and deepen the Kootenay River at Grohman rapids, two miles west of Nelson.

Former Sergeant Star Witness For State As U.S. Opens Spy Trial

GUILTY PLEA BOLSTERS CASE AGAINST RING

Austrian Born Man Alters Plea to Aid Government Charge

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—An unexpected plea of guilty by a former United States army sergeant accused of espionage provided the federal government with an important witness Thursday as it opened its trial of two other men and a woman charged with selling military secrets to a foreign power.

Two minutes after Federal Judge John C. Knox mounted the bench to direct selection of a jury, Guenther Gustav Rumrich, 32, Chicago, born son of Austrian parents, announced he wished to change his previous plea to guilty.

BLUNDER PROVES FATAL

His attorney, said Rumrich, whose blundering attempt to obtain passport blanks originally led to discovery of the spy ring, would testify for the government. Each defendant faces a possible maximum penalty of 20 years in prison.

A jury of 10 men and two women was picked to hear the testimony, which the government will begin presenting Monday.

Rumrich's change of plea momentarily diverted attention from the lone woman defendant, Johanna Hofmann, 26, pretty former beauty shop attendant on the North German Lloyd liner Europa, and her two co-defendants.

The ex-sergeant had been accused of serving as chief "contact man" in the United States a highly-organized espionage ring directed by three high officials of the German war ministry. The German officials were indicted with 15 others, but the United States extradition treaty with Germany does not authorize their being brought here for trial.

MESSAGE BEARER

Fraulein Hofmann is accused of acting as message bearer and "pay-off" agent of the ring, which allegedly plotted to steal military, naval and air force secrets.

Her two fellow defendants are Otto Hermann Voss, 36, a naturalized German, formerly employed at a Secersky airplane factory on Long Island, where secret new pursuit planes are under construction for the army; and Erich Glaser, 28, another naturalized German, U. S. army private attached to the 18th reconnaissance squadron.

The speed with which the jury was selected left counsel for both sides unprepared to go ahead with the trial and Judge Knox agreed to adjourn the case until Monday.

Rumrich deserted his post with the army several years ago and for a considerable time worked under another name in a New Jersey chemical plant. He was born in 1901, the son of a former minor official of the Imperial Austrian consular service.

OTHER DEFENDANTS

Other defendants named in the indictment include: Capt.-Lieut. Udo Von Bonin, chief of the Marine Nachrich-Tenstelle (naval intelligence service) of the war ministry in Berlin.

Dr. Ignatz T. Griebl, a naturalized United States citizen of German birth who fled a prosperous medical practice in New York to avoid appearing before the grand jury, and who is identified as a liaison agent for the spy ring in the United States. Capt.-Lieut. Herman Menzel, assistant to Von Bonin in the Marine Intelligence Service.

Capt.-Lieut. Erich Pfeiffer, chief of the same service at the Port of Bremen, and reputed to be in direct command of espionage work in North and South America.

Capt.-Lieut. Ernest Mueller, chief of the same service at the Port of Hamburg.

William Lonkowski, civilan official of the war ministry in Berlin.

Mrs. Jessie Jordon, British-born wife of a German citizen now serving a four-year term at hard labor in England for violating the official secrets act.

Werner George Gudenberg, assistant in the Bremen marine intelligence offices who fled the United States after appearing before the federal grand jury.

Karl Schulter, so-called Nazi political officer stationed on the German liner Bremen.

Karl Eitel, former steward on the Bremen.

Herbert Kaenichen, who took Eitel's place when news of the spy investigation reached Berlin and arrests seemed iminent.

Prosecutors said the two principal objects of the government's case will be first to prove the guilt of the defendants to the satisfaction of the jury and second, the complicity of the German government.

Edmonton Citizens Endorse Lead Of Government In N.Z.

9—Unnecessary strikes or lockouts are punishable by law. There has been no major strike in New Zealand for more than 20 years. Compulsory unionization prevails.

10—Fair rents act provides for the fixing of fair rents by a judge or judicial process.

11—The anti-profiteering act prevents people from nullifying the benefits conferred by higher wages and pensions by "unjustified increases in prices."

12—The government issued $25,000,000 in currency for a low cost housing scheme, with no two homes in any district being alike, and is preventing slums growing up. The average rent of a modern five-room home under this plan is $20 a month.

Comment by Edmonton citizens is as follows:—

Premier William Aberhart: It is most encouraging indeed to hear of the splendid success of the New Zealand government in its election return of 55 seats out of 80. It reveals to the world at large that the people are determined to have a change in the present oppressive financial system and to secure economic freedom.

I am all the more pleased because the economic and social service program of the New Zealand government has many features similar to that of the Social Credit philosophy. The prime minister of New Zealand will now be able to proceed with all assurance knowing that the will of the people is solidly behind him.

The imperative need is social security which can be brought about by the use of the national credit in the issuance of the currency and credit in terms of public need and to fill the need to bring about a constructive employment program.

Such planks in the New Zealand platform as low interest rates, housing construction, old age pensions and other social services are an endorsement of many of the things we are trying to do here.

James A. MacKinnon, Liberal M.P. for West Edmonton: The victory of the Labor government in the New Zealand election, by so decisive a majority, is much more than a tribute to its zeal for social reform. It is a portent whose significance should not be dim or obscure to the rest of the world. It has often been charged that the desire for social change, for economic betterment, is confined to a few and that an ambitious program of reform must break down.

New Zealand has shown how false that thesis is. A government resolute for reform, in the face of backbiting and incessant criticism from the heirs of the system the government wished to have improved, managed not only to achieve an amazing record in social legislation but to obtain increased support from the electorate. Reform is the hope of democracy. Unless reforms are granted in justice, the people turn to new and turbulent gospels. New Zealand deserves a vote of thanks for impressing the truth of that doctrine once more upon us.

Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture: Return of the government in New Zealand will be a matter of gratification to progressive Alberta minds. The New Zealand government has made its appeal on legislation put into effect there on the same principles as enunciated by the Alberta government, such as low cost housing, issuance of credit and other matters and I am certainly glad to see that it has been endorsed by the people of that country.

Neil D. Maclean, K.C.: The election in New Zealand is an indication of the feeling of people the world over; it is just as strong in Canada for such social legislation as they have in New Zealand as it is in that country. We have also to get more advanced labor laws in Canada, and I believe that the forty-hour week, old age pensions on an adequate scale at 60, maternity benefits, state health benefits, unemployment insurance and all the other legislation New Zealand now enjoys must be brought into effect in this country. It is progress along real safe and sane lines and it cannot be stopped. Everyone wants social security and security for their families if something happens before they themselves are able to provide it, and it can be given by such legislation as has been enacted in New Zealand and which has been so overwhelmingly upheld there by the people at today's elections.

Elmer Roper, secretary of the Alberta C.C.F.: "The result was inevitable; a government which has made such tremendous progress in bringing social and economic security to the country should have received the approval of the people. Naturally those of us who are advocating similar measures in Canada are greatly gratified over the results of the New Zealand elections."

Gorge H. Williams, M.L.A., Wadena, and leader of the Saskatchewan C.C.F.: "It seems evidence that the British Commonwealth of Nations is marching towards Constitutional Socialism. It is to be expected now that all the liberal parties such as Social Credit and the Liberal-Conservative parties will claim to be the same kind of government as the New Zealand government is.

"The reply of the electors to these claims will naturally be: "Go thou and do likewise." And inasmuch as likewise consists of pegged prices for farm products, marketing boards, socialization of Industry, socialization of banking facilities, it is not at all likely that the liberal parties will really duplicate the New Zealand feat. It will remain for a socialist party such as the C.C.F. to accomplish that."

Alfred Farmilo, secretary, Edmonton Trades and Labor Council: News that the New Zealand labor government has been returned to power with an overwhelming majority is extremely gratifying. This is no doubt due to the serious and successful efforts of the government of Mr. Savage to improve the living conditions of the working people of New Zealand. Neither must we forget that Mr. Savage's government is conforming to the British type of constitutional government that prevails throughout the British Empire, and that whatever laws passed for the improvement of the workers' living conditions will establish precedents in strict accord with British parliamentary practice. It would seem to me that the uncompromising attitude of Mr. Savage and his government in supporting the policy of the Imperial government in the recent crisis was an important factor in the success of New Zealand's labor government.

R. C. Marshall, Liberal candidate in the recent East Edmonton federal by-election: I am glad that the Labor government of New Zealand has gone back into office with so big a majority. They have thought out a careful program of financial and social reform and have set an example that might be followed with profit in other countries, including our own. I am particularly impressed with their provisions for a decent old age pensions ssystem in which I have long been vitally interested and which I advocated in the East Edmonton by-election. The sooner this plan of reducing the qualifying age for old age pensions to 60 comes about in Canada, the better it will be for all of us, because it is the only means of taking old men off the labor market and giving young people a chance.

Miss Mary R. Crawford, treasurer of the Alberta C.C.F. recently returned from a visit to New Zealand where she studied the record of the government: "I think the victory of the government is a personal tribute to Premier Savage and is also a condemnation of the election methods pursued by the Nationalist party. That party did not discuss the real issues of the campaign. It simply called the government names and accused it of being atheistic, enacting confiscatory legislation, and so on. I am glad that the language of abuse fell before the language of reason. Of course, I am not surprised that the Labor government has won, though I am very happy. When I was in New Zealand there seemed to be a feeling that the government would be returned with a limited majority. Even the Nationalist party seemed to limit its hopes to that. The fact that the government has actually increased its majority is eloquent eulogy of its record. The Maori population, to which the government has shown every sympathy, seeking to protect the treasures of native culture and giving Maoris educational opportunities on a new scale, has evidently stood by Premier Savage and his colleagues. The small farmer knows when he is well off and he realizes that the Labor government has given him a greater equity in his farm than he ever enjoyed.

"Although the nationalization of the banking achievement was, of course, a most important measure, the real issues in the present campaign were the more recent measures seeking the nationalization of health services and the granting of increased pension benefits. The resounding victory shows what the people of New Zealand think of these acts."

Ex-Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C.—Straws show which way the wind blows. If Canadians had a chance tomorrow to vote on similar legislation as that put forward by the New Zealand government they would endorse it just as handsomely as the New Zealanders have. We have got to have adequate old age pensions, unemployment insurance, low cost housing schemes, state medical services and all the other social legislation now in force in New Zealand and which has proved workable. I have always supported such legislation and will continue to do so, and I think that a mayor and council in Edmonton who will get out and work for such legislation and keep prodding at the powers-that-be, can do a lot to get similar advantages for the people of this country and city. At any rate that's what I'm out to try and get and I'm not going to stop trying. A good start can be made by the people of Edmonton by re-electing me mayor."

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, is absent from the city, on holidays, and could not be reached for comment.

Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, absent from Edmonton on official business was another cabinet minister whose comments could not be secured by The Bulletin.

BELIEVE DEAL IS AFOOT OVER NORTH IRELAND

Fear Six Counties May Be Quietly Handed Over To De Valera

By SEAN O'CATHAIN
Canadian Press Correspondent

BELFAST, Oct. 15.—Although newspapers reflecting the views of Viscount Craigavon's government are keeping silent, fears are being openly expressed in govern circles in Belfast that a deal with Prime Minister Eamon De Valera on the question of northern Ireland is afoot "for the good of the Empire."

The view is gaining strength in northern Ireland that it behooves Loyalists to be alert lest the six counties some day should be quietly handed over to Mr. De Valera as the price of Ireland's undivided support of Great Britain in the event of war.

NEW PARTITION DRIVE

Reports reaching the north from Dublin that a new partition drive is being planned in the south have intensified local feelings of alarm. There has been talk of the possibility of a plebiscite but northern Loyalists declare the demands have been advanced purely for propaganda purposes.

No one doubts that Fermanagh, Tyrone, South Down, South Armagh and Derry City would vote themselves under the Eire constitution. Authorities point out, however, if a plebiscite were granted to these areas, a similar concession must be made to the remaining districts of northern Ireland which "unquestionably" would declare for continued association with the United Kingdom, leaving the partition problem unsolved.

REAL THREAT

The real threat to the present position of northern Ireland is believed to be contained in proposals advanced by Mr. De Valera last January during discussions with the British government leading to the Anglo-Erie agreement.

He then gave his blessing to David Lloyd George's proposal of 1921. This plan provided the Belfast government be granted its present area of jurisdiction and its present powers as a local parliament extending to an all-Ireland parliament, constituted on the basis of proportional representation, the "reserved powers" at present retained by the Imperial parliament.

MIGHT BE TOLERATED

Mr. de Valera at that time declared the Belfast parliament could not justify any claim for its present boundaries, even as a local parliament, but on a guarantee of fair treatment for the Nationalist and Roman Catholic minorities he agreed it might be tolerated under an all-Ireland parliament.

Mr. de Valera actually incorporated a clause enabling this to be carried out under the Eire constitution, which provides for recognition of "subordinate parliaments."

Meanwhile, reports reaching the north indicate a world-wide campaign against continued partition will be launched. It is understood special emphasis will be laid abroad on the argument that separation would be a menace to Great Britain in time of war while a peaceful settlement would ensure uninterrupted supplies of men and materials, apart from the fact that Ireland would be effectively defended by her own people.

ment to the various home defence services.

Women would be classified for specialized jobs such as motor and ambulance driving, nursing and munition work.

Professional association may be requested to circularize members asking for special information. Doctors would be classified according to their willingness to serve anywhere in Great Britain or in their immediate localities. The same thing applies to scientists, architects and engineers who, in the last war, often fought in the front trenches while others lacking specialized knowledge attempted to carry out their work at home.

It also reported the government is considering plans for a vast network of bomb-proof shelters throughout London, costing £4,000,000 ($20,000,000). They would necessitate a change in the government's plans for evacuation of the city.

Taking a lesson from Madrid and Barcelona, Britain would construct shelters for men, women and children, rather than move them to the country in vast numbers. The two Spanish cities found shelters the best defence against sky raiders and, despite the large number of bombings, casualties have been comparatively small.

At the height of the crisis two weeks ago shelters were started in many city parks and open spaces. Gangs of men worked day and night, but a halt has been called until a definite long-range policy is settled.

wells in the Turner Valley field, 43 miles southwest of here. They are capable of producing 300,000,000 cubic feet daily but some have been closed down and others operating on a limited schedule making the day-by-day flow 114,000,000 cubic feet.

The Board has ruled that an output of 40,000,000 cubic feet is sufficient to supply fuel and industrial needs for Calgary and other Alberta centres and for the requirements of the field. The city of Calgary where gas is used extensively for domestic and industrial use, requires an average of 20,000,000 feet daily. It is piped into Calgary from the valley field.

VALIDITY CHALLENGED

Mercury Oils Limited, oil well operators, challenged the validity of the Board and its orders.

In proceedings before Mr. Justice W. C. Ives this week, counsel for the oil company sought to have the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Act, under which the Board was established, declared ultra vires. The court reserved decision.

In the case of Mercury Oils Limited penalties will be waived until judgment is delivered in the court test.

Bluffing Doesn't Pay?

Sir John Simon says he does not believe in the "theory of the effectiveness of bluff". It is time somebody took up that side of the argument for there is a pretty general impression that bluffing is at the present time the most successful of all types of international policy, and there is a good deal of proof to back up the opinion.

To go no farther back, Mussolini bluffed Europe and grabbed Abyssinia. Hitler bluffed Europe and occupied the Rhineland, bluffed it again and took Austria, bluffed once more and got Sudetenland. If Sir John knows of any late instances in which bluffing hasn't been effective, or hasn't paid, it would be refreshing to learn about them.

Another Civic Worry

Thanks to a fairly dry summer which has lingered far into what is commonly the fall season, the dust nuisance in Edmonton has this year been particularly bothersome and prolonged. In common phraseology, it has been a "fright". Every unpaved street has been a bed of dust which passing motor cars caught up and sent billowing into open doors and windows, while the sidewalks have been coated and the air at times positively thick. The gravelled streets have been probably even worse than dirt roads, a poor return to the home-owners who are paying for this improvement in frontage taxes.

Council early in the summer appropriated $12,000 for street oiling, but the appropriation ran out quickly and was only sufficient to treat a few of the most-travelled streets. If oil is the answer to the dust problem, it is evident that money for oiling will have to bulk regularly and much larger in future budgets, and the bigger budgeting will have to start next year. One way or another, the nuisance must be abated.

Money not being plentiful, the City Engineer suggests that oiling be done on a local improvement basis, the residents along a street bearing directly part of the cost of treating it. Since council has little leeway under the compulsory 54 mill tax rate, that is probably the only way to finance the service. Unwelcome as any added taxation must be, if the oil treatment has proved satisfactory it would be cheap at any reasonable cost.

Swept Into the "Orbit"

Czechoslovakia's foreign minister journeyed to Berchtesgaden on Thursday and spent a day talking things over with Der Fuehrer. Why he went is only too obvious, what they talked about may be surmised without any violent mental exertion, and the upshot can be taken for granted. He went to find out how much of his country will be left intact; the discussion centered on the terms and conditions on which it will be allowed to remain a country; and the conclusion was that the Czech Government will do what Herr Hitler tells it to. These guesses stand out as being not merely probabilities, but necessary inferences from the circumstances. And they are supported by the official announcement of Czech "loyalty" to the Reich.

Czechoslovakia is entirely at the mercy of the Fuehrer. So are Hungary and Poland. How much of the little republic Germany will annex, and how much these others will tear away, rests with him. Naturally, being master of the situation, the Fuehrer names the terms on which his protection will be given to the Czechs, and in what measure. What those terms are, Berlin despatches have been explaining for a week, and the explanations have been questioned nowhere.

Czechoslovakia has passed within the "orbit" of German control, economic and political. Its foreign minister went to Berchtesgaden to promise delivery of the goods. That is the meaning of the visit. It is significant that the same evening Hungary let its ultimatum lapse without invading the country. The resources of Czechoslovakia, human and material, have been added to the assets of the Fuehrer.

Where Can We Sell Wheat?

Premier Bracken plans to call an international conference at Winnipeg to discuss the marketing of farm products. What he—and all other westerners—would particularly like to find out of course is where markets are to be found for the surplus farm products grown in the prairie provinces; and, first and foremost, what to do with the surplus of wheat. "With No. 1 Northern worth only seven cents a bushel more than the average for 1932-33, the worst year that we experienced during the depression," the timeliness of the subject is plain, and any attempt to discover means to restore wheat-production to an economic basis is to be welcomed.

That is the major problem with which the conference will have to concern itself. Farmers, in Canada and in the United States, cannot produce wheat without profit, without going "broke". Their governments cannot finance them to grow it without profit, without collecting the bonus-money from the pockets of the taxpayers, which they are doing at present. To do either, if and so long as it could be done, would only be to supply cheap wheat to foreign markets—which, by the way, don't want it and won't admit it save in driblets.

That seems to be the point to which a study of the wheat-selling question comes ultimately; the fact that countries which used to import in bulk are now growing their own wheat regardless of what it costs them. Italian consumers, for example, are paying $2.15 a bushel for home-grown wheat of a grade which in Canada would be fed to pigs.

If the object of the proposed conference is to restore wheat-growing to a business status, and not simply to tell the farmer to stop growing so much wheat, it might give attention to means to break down policies of uneconomic nationalism and re-establish international trade in wheat on the basis of what the grain is actually worth.

There may be no connection between the two, but the falling franc does not indicate French confidence that the settlement has cleared up the European situation.

The government of Hungary would like to pry off the eastern end of Czechoslovakia and thus obtain "free access" to the border of Poland. The Czechs might do worse than let them have it. If the Magyars are minded to try kicking that keg of dynamite, why should the Czechs stand in the way?

KING SOLOMON'S MINES

Once, in the Sudan, a mining engineer invited me to join an expedition into Ethiopia in search of King Solomon's mines, to which, he said, they had a sure clue. Evidently the quest was not successful, else the world would have heard of it.

So I have never been sorry that I was not diverted from my own work into treasure-hunting. As the cablegrams have made tragically clear, the quest for Ethiopia's treasure still goes on—to the neglect of the more routine but also more glorious work of helping to build a neighborly world, and of establishing righteousness on the earth.

Gold is not humanity's greatest need, but character and justice and kindliness are. Whoever uncovers these to the world is a more profitable servant of his generation than the one who finds again the mines of Solomon.

We would be treasure-hunters, O God, and "covet earnestly the best gifts." Give us, we pray, soul riches to share. Amen.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

In the stress of the war-scare several important items of world news went with scant notice. An Englishman in America broke the world's speed record. His nearest rival—also an Englishman—went him one better. Within a few days the first one had pushed the speed record up another notch, traveling six miles a minute and narrowly escaping accident in doing it. Yet this triple sensation was dismissed in a few paragraphs. It took away little attention from the threat of a war that would disrupt the world.

TWO BRITISH OCEAN QUEENS

Substituting for the King, the Queen of England officiated at the launching of the biggest, swiftest and most luxurious ocean liner ever built—the Cunard-White Star "Queen Elizabeth." Together with the "Queen Mary" these two giant ferry steamers will institute a weekly shuttle service between New York and Southhampton.

The "Queen Mary" holds records for the fastest eastward and westward passages. The "Queen Elizabeth," which is a little longer and a little heavier in tonnage, is designed to be a little faster than her regal sister ship. With these two palatial liners in service Britannia will once more rule the Atlantic waves.

Both great vessels reflect the pressure of the times. They must be big in order to be profitable. Advances in engineering and shipbuilding make the big ship more economical than the smaller liners of twenty years ago. Sir Percy Bates, chairman of the Cunard-White Star line, says that the "Queen Mary" of 80,774 gross tons is not only larger and faster than the pre-war Berengaria of 52,101 tons, but consumes less fuel oil. They are not built as mere racing machines. They are built for a generation of service, and must run on railroad schedule with clock-like regularity. The old Mauretania in the closing years of her life beat the record she made over a quarter century before.

IT STARTED IN JAPAN

Some of the religionists on both sides of the Atlantic took occasion in the war-scare days to launch a movement for "spiritual mobilization." No one can give criticism. It's as unexceptionable as "Mother's Day." The movement didn't originate in England. It originated in Japan in the early days of the undeclared war upon China. The Central Federation of General Spiritual Mobilization in Japan issued thirteen "commandments"—going the Jewish and Christian Ten Commandments three better. They were offered as "a code of proper conduct during wartime, designed to condition the people, mentally and spiritually, for the duties and sacrifices the government believes necessary." Here they are:

1. Every morning, give prayers to the imperial grand shrine, and pray for the safety of the imperial family.
2. Hoist the national flag properly on holidays.
3. Worship the deities and endeavor for the harmony of the family.
4. Live on a budget, pay cash, save regularly and buy national bonds.
5. Wear simple clothes and avoid foreign-style hair dressing.
6. Observe wedding, funeral and other home affairs simply but solemnly.
7. Reform the bad custom of late to bed and late to rise.
8. Economize on metal, wool, cotton, paper and fuel, and utilize waste and other buried things.
9. Endeavor to prevent fire and prepare for air raids.
10. Rear the children to be strong in mind and body.
11. Have bodily exercise every day to train the mind and body.
12. Economize in drinking sake (rice wine).
13. Be friendly to neighbors and help one another.

All of this is good advice, as valid in times of peace as in times of war. Any unemployed family in Alberta, living on relief, by rigid observance of Commandment 4, would in time become independently well to do.

A VICTIM OF MEN'S WILES

A despatch from Lexington, N.C., in The Bulletin a week ago about the sentencing of a jailer's 22-year-old daughter to 60 days in her dad's jail for liberating two youthful prisoners, didn't do justice to the tender heart of this daughter of North Carolina. It was just another case of a trustful woman—more sinned against than sinning. Belle, who weighs 175 pounds on the hoof at 22 years, has a certain skill in man-handling obstreperous female prisoners, so her dad entrusted her with the keys. The two youngsters who were in jail for shooting a man in an attempted hold-up, talked very sweetly to Belle through the bars. They told her all about saying their prayers at their mothers' knees and they promised her if she would let them out that they would attend church regularly. So Belle freed them, and gave them a couple of guns and some cartridges, to help them overcome difficulties in their efforts to lead reformed lives.

She was just a simple corn-fed maiden unused to the wiles of men. How was she to know that they would immediately proceed to murder a motorist in order to get his car? She was only a jailer's daughter, but she had a whim of iron.

The Movies Turn To the Press

The motion picture industry is taking substantial advertising space in the daily press to promote its present contest which is designed to revive the patronage of pictures.

It is a sensible move, upon which the movie magnates are to be congratulated.

Like any other industry, motion pictures must be supported and sustained by intelligent publicity. And daily newspapers, as events have proved time and again, provide the most stable, effective and influential medium for that publicity.

There is no substitute for institutional advertising, whether it be in the field of foodstuffs, of amusements, of professional services, or of health.

The motion picture people do well to recognize that fact.—Vancouver Sun.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng. (By Mail).—Mr. A. Beverley Baxter, M.P., following his return from Canada, where he has been making holiday in the Thousand Islands, has lost no time in pointing out to British capital that it is overlooking a big opportunity in Alberta.

J. E. NORCROSS

"It will have been noticed in the Press of the last few days," he writes in the Sunday Times, "that German firms have offered to build a pipe line on a barter basis for the oil fields of Alberta. Presumably the pipe line would not extend to the Pacific, but would be eastward along the lesser distance of about 1,100 rail miles to Fort William at the head of the Great Lakes."

Mr. Baxter, although he is a Toronto man, seems to be a little out in his Canadian distances. Just before the war, when Turner Valley first became prominent as an oil producer there was talk of building a pipe-line, not east, but westward to Vancouver.

Mr. Baxter continues: "I do not see anything sinister in this (the German proposal) except that it adds one more charge to the arraignment that as a nation we are not awake either to the responsibilities or opportunities of Empire.

"If there is no other way of getting a pipeline I hope the Germans will build it; but if that comes to pass, then I think it will be to the shame of British capital and British prestige.

"It should be patent to us all that this new oil field is of tremendous commercial and strategic importance to Great Britain. It is now possible for the British navy to make contracts for supplies which might be invaluable in case of war."

Mr. Baxter notes that according to the official figures of Canadian government experts Alberta can produce 19,000,000 barrels of crude oil annually, a figure which compares with the annual output of Trinidad, a district "rightly regarded as an important source of supply."

A pipeline is needed to bring about a fuller development of the Calgary oilfield, as alert German interests have recognized, he says, remarking that not long ago the Anglo-Persian Oil Company made an abortive attempt to develop certain properties in Germany. The British government owns the majority of the shares in the Anglo-Persian.

"Is it too much to suggest," Mr. Baxter asks, "that it might regard British territory as an even more logical and fruitful field for exploitation?

"I feel very strongly that this is a matter which touches both our pride and self interest," he concludes.

"While being grateful to Germany for its example in business alertness we should surely take the attitude that the pipe-line and the oil that will eventually pass through it are essentially and primarily of concern to Great Britain."

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

In today's article I am going to discuss the enlargement of the glands at the sides of the neck which is very common, and which is not due to a tubercular infection. Swelling of these lymphatic glands may occur in both an acute and chronic form—in the acute type the enlargement subsiding fairly rapidly; and in the chronic type, the glands staying swollen and tender for several weeks or months or even years.

Most people notice an enlargement of the glands of the neck during an acute cold or during acute tonsillitis; however those with chronic catarrh may find these lumps persisting over a large period of time. These enlarged lumps will then be easily felt with the tips of the fingers.

These neck glands are called lymph nodes and are a part of the lymphatic circulation. While these nodes are found in many parts of the body, groups of them occur in certain regions, such as at the sides of the neck and in the armpits. Although any of these nodes may become swollen and tender, those of the neck are affected more often than others.

Chronic inflammation of the tonsils, of the middle ear cavity, and chronic catarrh of the nose, may all be accompanied by an enlargement of these glands. Whenever the neck glands stay swollen and sore, there probably exists some irritation of the nose, throat, or ear to explain this condition. With the removal of such irritation, the glands usually return promptly to normal size and will lose their tenderness. Occasionally, such swelling is due to decayed teeth, or to sinus trouble, or in children it may be due to enlargement of the adenoid tissue.

In the acute cases, considerable tenderness may develop in which case it is the best plan to put the patient to bed, place him on a fast, give one or more plain warm water enemas a day, and to use hot moist applications or compresses around the throat.

Young children usually obtain very rapid results with this fasting treatment and it is generally necessary for them to fast for only a few days, after which the lymph nodes will be emptied enough so that a cure can be effected if a careful diet is then employed.

In the chronic cases, a longer time will be needed to return the glands entirely to normal; however the fasting and dieting treatment will favorably influence the removal of any irritation in the nose or throat and with such removal the neck glands will then return to normal size and will give no further trouble.

When the chronic enlargement is due to sick tonsils, then suitable local treatment is often necessary in addition to the fasting.

The acute cases are those which respond the most readily and in most of them all that is needed to reduce the swollen glands is to follow the advice I have given you about rest in bed, using the fast, the adoption of a better diet, and the use of the compresses and the enemas.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of health in plain easily understandable language.

A limited supply is on hand at The Bulletin. A copy will be mailed postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Just address The Bulletin.

To Be Pitied

Editor, Bulletin: I have never written to a paper before, but such ignorance, lack of ordinary knowledge and apparent attempt to obtain any information as displayed by "Disgusted" prompts me on this occasion, by the way, "Disgusted" is a good pen name. If the gentleman is able to read I would suggest he buy a "News Review". Ignorant people such as one so often meets, who don't even realize the calamity of a war today, in my opinion are to be pitied. Probably they think that here, in the west, they are immune.

Central Heating

Editor, Bulletin: I live in hopes that we will have a central heating system in this city before long. A friend of mine who lived in Winnipeg told me he had his residence heated by that system and how nicely you can regulate the temperature by the various valves. A great deal of trouble from dust is avoided and also danger from fires breaking out from hot ashes. Central heating would also speed up our scavenging system. If we had six buildings about the size of the Royal Alexandra Hospital, with up-to-date accomodation, sanitary and comfortable, we could strike a paralyzing blow at slum conditions. In Moscow the rents from the newly erected apartments are used to build more. I have heard civic employees say they would sooner pay rent to the city than buy houses on the instalment plan and lose everything eventually. Minneapolis has a central heating system. I would like to hear opinions of others along these lines to make our citizens healthier and happier.

Won't Bow the Knee

Editor, Bulletin: As an old reader of your estimable newspaper for 27 years, but now resident in France, I would like to give you and my friends in Alberta a small idea of how things are in this great city of Paris. Canadians in the east and the west have been given a false impression about the spirit and strength of mind of the Frenchman. They have been represented to us as being volatile and very easy to inflame, but this is wrong. Never in my life have I seen such calmness and patriotic spirit as I saw in the two weeks of the recent crisis, as every Frenchman with heart and hand, and with an inbred patriotism, responded to the call to protect his own and his beautiful country. For two weeks every day from La Gare de l'Est I saw thousands upon thousands of young men responding to the call to the colors taking the trains for the eastern frontier to protect this country against invaders. The thing that suprised me was the stoicism on the part of the people, both old and young. Not a tear was shed, but through the pale faces of the old, many of them sending as many as eight sons to the front, shone only pride and hope, although many trembled that perhaps they were seeing the last of their loved ones and receiving their last kisses from them. And the young men were just as calm and unafraid, although they must have thought they were perhaps leaving their good parents for ever.

The same spirit was manifest in Great Britain. I was in London on a business trip when Prime Minister Chamberlain came back from Germany, after his first visit to Hitler. I was left stupified by the experience. I had always thought the British rather cold by temperament and not very exuberant or demonstrative, but in the eyes of the thousands in the crowds greeting Mr. Chamberlain there were unashamed tears of pride and joy. The idea of the prime minister of the greatest Empire in the world abasing himself to a pygmy to protect the weak against the horrors of war, although certain of victory if war came, made a great impression. The British Empire must be proud to have such a man at its head. I never will forget those great moments.

If there is war, as many believe there must be, it will be terrible with all the deadly war inventions now possible, but be sure of this, our two great democracies, Britain with its 450,000,000 and France with its 100,000,000 population, will emerge victorious. They will never again bend the knee to the Hun. If Hitler thinks that it will be a walkover his mind must be gone altogether. If he declares war, he will get it, but this time Great Britain and France will not make the mistake they made in 1918. The war will be brought home to Germany as never before.

By FRED WILLIAMS

His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general, will today be the recipient of an honorary degree from Western University, London, where he attends the diamond jubilee convocation of that important centre of education in Canada.

It was on March 7, 1878, that Royal assent was given to an act incorporating Western University, London. Like a majority of the universities of Canada, Western owes its birth to the Church of England. Its basis was Huron College, the creation of Dr. Cronyn, the first Bishop of Huron, in 1863, for the training of young men for the ministry of the Church of England. His successor, Bishop of Hellmuth, realized the need of a liberal education and secured the charter for Western University. For many years, however, the arts college was almost dormant, though the medical school, opened in 1883, has had continuous existence.

The first medical graduate was the late Hon. W. J. Roche, afterward Minister of Interior, Secretary of State and chairman of the Civil Service Commission. The first arts graduate was Hon. R. F. Sutherland, M.P. for Essex, Speaker of the House of Commons, 1903-9, and then Judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

When the Drury government came into office after the war, an investigation was made of the finances of the three universities in Ontario, the investigating commission being headed by Rev. Dr. Cody. The commission recommended a grant of about $1,000,000 for buildings. A site of about 300 acres had already been purchased on the outskirts of the city. The buildings erected and put into use in 1924 were: (1) A main university building for administration and teaching; (2) a natural science building; (3) a heating plant. In 1934 the Lawson Memorial Library (with now over 100,000 volumes, in care of Prof. Fred Landon) was erected, while new medical buildings have also been provided.

Dr. W. Sherwood Fox became president in 1926, so that his decennial coincides with the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of Western, which has affiliated with it: (1) Huron Diocesan College, London; Assumption College and Holy Name College, Windsor; the Ursuline College and St. Peter's Seminary, London; (4) Waterloo (Lutheran) College, Waterloo; (5) Alma College, St. Thomas, all of which, with graduates of former years, will participate in the diamond jubilee celebration.

HORE-BELISHA AIMS BEATING WAR DEMAND

New Scheme Planned to Protect Key Plants From Attack

LONDON, Oct. 15—Leslie Hore-Belisha, secretary of state for war, last night broadcast an appeal to men working in Great Britain's armament plants to "exceed anticipations in the months that are to come."

The war minister outlined his new scheme to protect key industrial plants from low-flying enemy planes by trained reservists of the territorial army, who would drop their tools and man light guns and machine-guns.

Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, in an address to a business club at Cardiff, appealed to Britons to submerge differences of class and political party in a supreme national effort to "build up the national defences."

MUST BE UNIFIED

He intimated it was essential, if democracies were to hold their own in a challenging modern world, the peoples show the same enthusiasm, unity, determination and spirit of self sacrifice as in the totalitarian states.

Mr. Hore-Belisha referred to the growth of the anti-aircraft division of the Territorials. In April, 1936, guns, searchlights and detectors were manned by 5,000 men. A year later the strength was 20,000. Today it is 47,250 and "We hope in another 12 months to double the number again."

"I appeal," the minister continued, "to all employers and workmen engaged in construction of factories and on production to exceed anticipations in the months that are to come."

PROTECT INDUSTRY

The new scheme to protect industry is based on the old principle of calling upon the people to defend themselves. Men between the ages of 38 and 50 will be trained and organized. Each factory will have its own defensive force to combat low-flying planes.

The war office announced it had reviewed the industrial plants of the whole country and had completed a list of those which should be protected.

Most of the new anti-aircraft units would be equipped with the deadly 3.7-inch gun, which now is stated to be in mass production on a scale to satisfy the defence needs of all Britain by next spring.

ALWAYS ENCLOSE A STAMPED, ADDRESSED ENVELOPE

Address all correspondence to: The Director, Stamp Collectors' Club, The Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

For some years The Bulletin has made possible guidance in the hobby of an internationally known philatelic expert, who is at your service to advise regarding your problems.

YOU are welcome in membership. State your age, size of collection and what stamps are of special interest to you. Enclose postage for reply always. You will receive a membership card and some stamps for your collection.

NOTE: Reference listing of "coils" in our club corner last week, the third group listed should properly read: 1c green; 1c green, with two large holes; 2c carmine; 3c brown. Make necessary correction in your scrap-book!

CANADIAN REVENUES

As mentioned in our club corner about seven years ago, many collectors are missing a very interesting group in not collecting Canadian Revenue Stamps. The revenue stamps of the U.S.A. have always been "catalogued" in the price list published annually by the Scott Stamp and Coin Company of New York (proprietor, Mr. Zimmerman) and those of Canada have been variously listed in the Oughtred, Jarrett, and other catalogues. There are many splendid collections of the Canadian "Revenues," or "Fiscals," that formed by Senator J. A. Calder having sold for some thousands of dollars a few years ago to a gentleman at Calgary. This "Dunham" collection is practically complete. Dr. F. S. McCall, of Alberta College, Edmonton, has another very complete collection of these items, to which he is regularly adding, and there are many others in existence in addition to the smaller collections being formed by those who appreciate an interesting group.

Canadian Revenues comprise the Bill Stamps, first issued in 1864; Customs Duty; War Tax Stamps, with which the postal war tax stamps, used as fiscals, should be included; Law Stamps of the various provinces, in which group the issues of the province of Alberta are most interesting; Assurance and Prohibition of the province of Quebec; Weights & Measures; Electric Light Inspection; Gas Inspection; Medicine Stamps; Dawson (Yukon) Mining Court Stamps; Lower Canada Registration Stamps; Cigarette and Tobacco Stamps, etc., etc., and it will be found that some of these items are really "hard" to find. Many of the stamps are beautifully line-engraved; others are lithographed, and it will be found, too, there are a number of "provisional" issues. Telegraph "Franks" of the various companies are also included in the group as are the Telephone franks.

It is possible to assemble two or three thousand stamps in a collection, and the "shade" and "minor variety" specimens of many issues are legion. This will appeal to those "specialist-minded." Start right at home and see if you cannot find some stamps on cancelled cheques, or old documents. It is well to acquire as large a packet from a dealer as is possible, and then fill in from approval selections, and by trading with other collectors.

We illustrate the type of the issue, in February 1868, of one of the bill stamps, as well as the $1.00 value of the 1st Issue of Alberta Law Stamps which latter was printed by The Edmonton Bulletin in 1906.

Phil has available a few packets of 50 different Canadian Revenues from duplicates of a large collection. These are assembled without regard to catalogue listed value, and may be had for one dollar, but only one to a member.

Revenues of Canada, to those specializing in issues of our own Dominion, will without doubt prove a fascinating field to explore.

Major and Minor Notes

By JOHN OLIVER

The musical season is now well under way both here and elsewhere. The Women's Musical Club, by the time this date is passed, will have held two of their regular meetings and two recitals, one vocal and one piano already have been given in public. The Women's Musical Club Celebrity Series is about to commence with the appearance of John Charles Thomas, Metropolitan Opera Association baritone, and next month the Don Cossacks Russian Choir will sing here, all of which makes a good start for the season.

On Saturday night the N.B.C. Symphony Orchestra will make its bow over the airways in the first concert of its second season, with Arturo Toscanini, the Milan maestro on the podium.

This concert will be on from 9 p.m. until 10:30 p.m. Edmonton time. Last season Toscanini conducted eight regular and one added concerts, but this season he will conduct at least 12.

On Sunday, October 23, the New York Philharmonic Symphony will make its seasonal debut over the airways, with John Barbirolli at the helm and with that magnificent group of first chair men leading the various sections. Due to the bringing of this unsurpassed orchestra into the home, music lovers recognize as household words the names of Mishel Piastro, the concert master; Joseph Schuster, first cellist; Zoltan Kurthy, first violist; John Amans, first flautist; Simeon Bellison, first clarinet; Harry Glantz, first trumpet; Mario Falcone, first trombone, and others of this galaxy of talent. With Barbirolli at the helm the Philharmonic appears set for one of its greatest seasons.

Incidentally, the recent recording by the Philharmonic with Barbirolli conducting of Debussy's Iberia suite, is being hailed as the finest recording by this orchestra.

Time marches on, but good music survives. It is significant that one of the most currently popular motion pictures is The Firefly and one of the most opulent productions yet seen in Hollywood is Sweethearts, which is soon to be shown. Just 25 years ago Rudolf Friml scored his first success in New York with his light opera The Firefly, while during the same season, Victor Herbert contributed the luscious score or Sweethearts. Now, 25 years after first seeing the light of day, they are again front rank hits.

It is also worthy of note that just 25 years ago "a new conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra is acclaimed." This new conductor was Leopold Stokowski. Here is what one critic wrote of him at that time: "His readings are lucid and eloquent, judicious and illuminative. He is respectful of the score, directs with fine vigor that mounts to ecstacy. He has magnetism and the effect of his personality on the orchestra's playing was miraculous." Leopold seems to have been a success from the first and he is still a front rank man.

Another indication of how time marches on is given by scouring the records for the song hits of the day. Here is what the dancers and the sing-songs sang a quarter of a century ago: Trail of the Lonesome Pine; There's a Girl in the Heart of Maryland; Sailing Down the Chesapeake Bay; When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy; My Little Persian Rose; Moonlight Bay; When the Roses Bloom in Dixie; The Curse of an Aching Heart; Peg O' My Heart; Somewhere a Voice is Calling; Last Night Was the End of the World, and others. Many of these songs are still frequently heard. Will Flat Foot Floogee, I'm Gonna Lock My Heart, There's a Brand New Picture in My Picture Frame, A Tisket A Tasket, and other currently popular be heard 25 years hence. Very doubtful. How many can tell the name of the leading song hit of six months or a year ago? Very few.

History shows that the public takes more to its heart the ballads and better class music, rather than the novelty numbers. This is borne out by a survey made by Al. Goodman, conductor of the Hit Parade, into the tunes played since this parade was started three years ago.

The tune that remained in first place the longest — seven times — was Once in a While. The tunes that remained in the Hit Parade listing longest were Alone and A Sailboat in the Moonlight, which retained their popularity for 16 weeks. On the contrary tunes like Bei Mir Bist Du Schoem and The Music Goes Round and Round and Flat Foot Floogie — with the Floy Floy — had comet-like rises, but equally rapid descents into oblivion.

The Edmonton branch of the Alberta Music Teachers' Association held its monthly meeting at the Corona hotel on Thursday, October 13. Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton, president, occupied the chair. Announcement was made that a new branch has been formed at Medicine Hat, under the presidency of Arthur Newcombe. The Alberta Music Teachers' Association is now functioning in five districts within the province, namely, Edmonton, Calgary, Red Deer, Crow's Nest Pass and Medicine Hat, with prospects of the organization extending to other centres, thus making it thoroughly representative of the musical profession. Any communications from districts yet unorganized will be welcomed by the branch. Letters from the official publication of the association, The Canadian Music Teacher, were read, and it was pointed out that co-operation from branches of the association will be welcomed to extend the work in hand. A comprehensive program for the 1939 convention of the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers Associations, to be held at Saskatoon under the presidency of Lyell Gustin, has been prepared and details covering its comprehensive coverage of important matters will be discussed at a later meeting.

Aerial Fossil Hunt To Have Base Here

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Dr. Barnum Brown, curator of fossil reptile of the American Museum of Natural History, and O. S. Chapin, of Calgary, planned to leave New York today for an extensive aerial survey of parts of Montana and Alberta in search of dinosaur remains.

The survey will start from Billings, Mont. Principal bases will be Calgary and Edmonton. The expedition will reconnoitre along the Red Deer river, where Dr. Brown's pioneer expeditions in 1909 and 1916 obtained 18 skeletons of giant carnivorous and herbivorous dinosaurs which roamed the Canadian and United States west 65,000,000 years ago.

What's New On The . . . RECORDS

BEING A REVIEW OF THE BEST NOW BEING TRANSCRIBED FOR GRAMOPHONES

By JOHN OLIVER

There is much to be thankful for in the latest parcel of Victor records which have just come to hand—a parcel containing records that undoubtedly will find a wide appeal and attract many music lovers.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, which is now commencing its 48th season, is one of the three greatest symphonic organizations in the United States, the others being the New York Philharmonic Symphony and the Philadelphia Orchestra.

GOES TO MOVIES

In the latest Victor parcel the Boston Symphony, under Serge Koussevitsky is heard in the suite Lieutenant Kije and in the March and Scherzo from the Love of Three Oranges suite, both by Serge Profokieff, the whole making up a masterpiece album of more than unusual merit and distinction.

The Lieutenant Kiji suite is drawn from incidental music that Prokofieff composed for a high successful Russian picture five years ago.

It is not often that a great symphony orchestra goes to the movies, but in this case the experiment has been well justified. This Lieutenant Kije suite is a succession of melodies packed with infectious humor and pointed wit. Some of the melodies are lively, some are blue of the bluest kind and the brilliant, colorful orchestration gives the whole a distinction that gives it a wide appeal.

Koussevitsky, noting the success of this music in both Europe and in the United States, made it a feature under his own direction at the recent Berkshire music festival at Stockbridge—a festival that attracts music lovers from all sections of the United States and many parts of this country.

Lieutenant Kije was a delightfully ridiculous creature, born of a misconception and creating much laughter.

MADE A MISTAKE

According to the story, Czar Nicholis I misread a name in a report as Kije, and as the Czar could do no wrong the fiction was maintained. Kike was thus created and proceeded to live, love, marry, enjoy a colorful life and finally, to the relief of many, to die. This story formed the basis of the Russian picture for which Prokokieff composed the music.

Always capable of expressing humor in his music through his craftsmanship, Prokokieff has added a rustic snap to his wit which fits in well with the subject of his music. This suite contains mock heroics, conscious pomposity and a marionette atmosphere.

The orchestra plays with vigor and enthusiasm and as is essential in such a work as this the recording is all that could be desired.

GREAT BOOKS IN BRIEF

By ELIZABETH COATES JAMES

"Tam O' Shanter"

By ROBERT BURNS

Tam had a bad time. You see he liked to drink. His wife had warned him that if he did not stop getting drunk that something fearful would happen to him. And it did.

One Saturday night when Tam had received his week's wages, he went into the village and stopped by the saloon just to see what the boys were doing. It was hard for him to get away, in fact so hard that it was midnight when he saddled his horse with difficulty and began the lonely ride home.

Tam's horse Meg knew the way home, so Tam was relieved of that responsibility. As they approached a wooded spot in the lane, a great commotion appeared in the distance. With careful focusing of the eye, Tam was able to make out figures, feminine figures and very lovely. They were dancing in a circle, and dear, dear, what beautiful girls!

Tam turned Meg in their direction and began to chase one of the girls. Instead of fleeing from him, she began to chase Tam. Great was his dismay to see on closer range that she was not a lovely girl, but a witch. Deceiving vapors!

JERKED HER AROUND

Tam jerked Meg around and they fled, the witch behind them. The witch can cross running water. If membered a stream of running water. He knew, according to all the tales of the old folks, that no witch cana cross running water. If Meg would only hold out. Away they went, Tam and Meg as one flying body with the witch reaching to grab them. They made the stream, but no! Poor Meg, she did not get entirely across before the witch grabbed her and pulled her tail off.

Burns was sorry for Meg and her fate, so he concluded his poem with a moral. He exhorts the reader thus: If at any time you are inclined to take too much to drink, just remember the sad story of Meg, faithful horse of Tam O'Shanter.

Another ballad in facetious manner is Burns' address to the devil, the Scottish title is "Address to the Deil." Burns really has nothing important to tell the devil, he just wants to show him that he is not afraid. He calls the devil by all the popular names, Old Scratch, Old Hornie, and others. He sidles up to him as a small boy would to something that he fears and is using to test his own bravery. Burns says to the devil, "Stop tormenting poor damned souls and come out and talk to me." Then he continues his harrangue, showing off to the devil.

TO A LOUSE

The most famous of Burns' humorous poems is "To a Louse." One Sunday Robert sat in the village church, enjoying the appearance of the villagers, who sparkled in their Sunday best.

The girl in front of him had a new hat, an intricate affair with ribbons and flowers on it. She was enjoying to the fullest the expensive sensation of a new hat, when Burns spied crawling among the ribbons—a louse! He was horrified at the impudence of it, that such a lowly creature should dare to be in such a fine place, the louse should be on some humble object and not on a lady's new Sunday hat.

Burns' immortal philosophy commemorates the incident of the louse:

"O wad some Power the giftie gie us
To see oursels as ithers see us;
It would frae monie a blunder free us,
An foolish notion."

When he was yet a boy, Robert met Mary Campbell. He loved her and never forget her, though she died within two years after their meeting. There were many women and many love affairs in the life of Burns, but those who have studied his life believe that no one took the place of inspiration and loveliness that was held by Mary Campbell, the sweetheart of his boyhood.

To her he wrote his most beautiful verses.

"My luv is like a red, red rose,
That's newly sprung in June.
O, my luv is like the melodies
That's sweetly played in tune."

Of her he wrote the song known round the world, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton." The Afton river flows in Scotland, and Burns thinks of Mary as lying asleep on its banks.

"My Mary's asleep by thy murmuring stream,
Flow gently, sweet Afton, disturb not her dream."

(Note to the reader: as an experiment, try reading the lines aloud.)

The spirit of good fellowship that was the magnet of Burns personality and that drew people of all classes to him, is evidenced in "Auld Lang Syne."

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And auld lang syne?"

There came a time in his life when Burns hated the upper classes of society, though the fault was partly his own. This hatred burst forth in some vitriolic lines, perhaps to be regretted; but one poem of this period challenges the spirit of the worth of man. It is the essence of democratic feeling. Burns says that social rank and fine clothes are but tinsel show, that the man is the gold, for all that.

"The honest man, tho' e'er sae poor,
Is king o' men, for all that."

Then he looks a long way into the future, past the time of the American, French and Russian revolutions, and he sees:

"For all that, and all that,
It's coming yet, for all that,
That man to man, the world o'er,
Shall brothers be, for all that."

The gold pieces included a seven shillings sixpence piece, only four of which are in existence, a spade kuinea, a $5.00 gold piece and a $1.00 gold piece. Marshall told police the coins had been in the family possession more than 60 years.

The League In Action

By Nellie McClung

(Copyright Reserved)

GENEVA, Switzerland.—The League of Nations is a world within a world. It is like nothing else. Naturally. And it takes some knowing. It grows more amazing all the time to me. I can see that we expected too much from it. We were glad, and happy and proud to have a world court and thought of it as a Research Bureau, a House of Parliament, a Clearing House of Ideas, a Police court, and great moral dynamo all blended and glorified, and consecrated to Humanity!

Much time has been spent in these first days of the League Assembly by speakers telling us why their country could not put sanctions against another country, even if the League told them to. The reasons were all the same. They did not want to. They were peaceful people. It would be bad business. The League has no power to make anyone do anything. That's the way it was made.

GREAT INSTITUTION

So as a police court it is cancelled out. But it is a great institution nevertheless, and as one speaker said, if we had no League of Nations, we would be very busy now making one.

The League has 47 countries in its membership, and it receives its income from its members. Last year it closed with a substantial surplus. I do not know whether it ever makes a refund of dues to any country. But, if it does, no doubt Ethiopia received her's with interest. I wanted to ask about this, but I curbed the impulse. The League made a profit of 390,000 gold francs on its investments, and they are putting it into a fund to cover "losses on investments" in the future. I mention this to show that there is a core of hard sense in the League. Also I note they collected all their fees except four per cent last year.

It is housed in a beautiful building overlooking the Lake of Geneva. It has a commanding position, gleaming white and pure on a terraced slope; flower beds in strange combination of colors heighten the sheen of green grass. The view from the top floor commands the whole city and countryside. The building is of stone, and many of the floors are of marble, waxed far beyond the danger point of slipperyness. The glass doors are so clear and flawless that a secretary walked through one. That was told to us the first day as a warning. Now the doors have bronze bars, to protect them. The assembly room has a system of lighting which cheats the oncoming night by making the daylight last. There is a series of platforms one above the other where the speakers and interpreters sit, though I know "platform" is not the right word. The wood in the lecterns is of Australian walnut. The seats are of walnut too, upholstered in cream cloth. There are galleries on both sides of the Assembly Hall and at the back, tier upon tier, and a seating capacity for thousands. Here the people gather to hear the speeches. But each one has to have a ticket, and be prepared to show their passport.

CHINESE LISTEN

Today, when Dr. Wellington Coo spoke, many Chinese people gathered, the women beautifully dressed in their straight gowns, with lovely furs, and their queer little shoes. And what a speech they heard from their gifted countryman. He spoke with rare eloquence and made us feel a bitter repentance for our share in his country's griefs. There are a million Japanese in China and they have slain or injured thirty million Chinese, and not one country in the League has put an embargo on the aggressor nation. Not one. Japan can buy as much war material as she wants although China has been a loyal member of the League since its beginning.

Dr. Coo speaks without bitterness, yet with a stark simplicity that strips away every excuse. He cannot understand how friendly nations can sell to the aggressor, after having pronounced against the invasion of China!

TRANSLATED

The speeches are given in either French or English, and translated into several languages. When the speech is being made in French, we use our earphones and hear it in English. All speeches are prepared in manuscript and translated into microphones as the speaker proceeds. A little dial on our desks instructs us where to turn for the language we wish to hear. After the speech is concluded the English, or French version is given from the platform, for the benefit of the galleries.

This naturally retards the speed of business. But it is necessary. Setting up the committees is a complicated business, accompanied by much formality. The chairman is proposed by some one, who dilates on the choice he is making. This is translated. Some one seconds the motion and tells of his pleasure in so doing and that is translated. Some one else upholds the choice with reasons.

ANOTHER IS HEARD

Another country gives tongue, with many complimentary phrases. Then the senior delegate of the country from which the chairman has been selected thanks all those who have spoken, for the honor they are about to bestow on his country by making Monsieur ——— their chairman — and finally the proposed chairman voices his appreciation and deep humility in accepting this honorable office, and knows the compliment is to his country, not to himself, but will endeavor to carry out his duties as well as his limitations will permit. As there are no objections, and everything has been translated and duly applauded, the chairman of the committee is declared elected. He then has his innings and the rapporteur has his. And so the day wears on.

DIFFERENT TYPES

It is interesting to note the different types of speakers. Yesterday we heard from an Englishman, and a Latin American; the Englishman, Earl de la Warr, was concise, detached, using simple well known phrases. The world cannot live today, he said, without the machinery of co-operation. The Latin American, full of fire, rhapsody and figures of speech, extolled the new Latin American as the conscience of the League of Nations. And so another day passed.

In the meantime the European situation is tense and threatening. Only a miracle can save us from another war. In our anxiety, we turn to the League, but the League has no answer to the question in everyone's heart—What can we do?

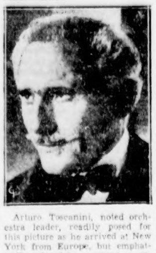
And yet light breaks through here and there. There are increasing evidences of a rising tide of repentance and humility among the nations. Letters in the papers, manifestoes, etc. One of the South American delegates said: "England is becoming more human, more Christian."

CONFESSES FAILURE

Over the radio a Swedish political party leader confessed the failures of his party, and invited the leaders of the other parties to confer with him on a new program for their country. The now famous letter in the Times, signed by Earl Baldwin and others, calling the nation to re-arm morally, was reprinted in German papers! There is something in the air!

Strange things have happened before in Geneva. The city is full of monuments to great spiritual movements. Above one is cut these words: "After darkness, light." Who knows what great illumination may break on this dark world of sorrow, if everyone of us will light our own candle of faith. Even now . . . There may yet be time!

Arrives



Arturo Toscanini, noted orchestra leader, readily posed for this picture as he arrived at New York from Europe, but emphatically refused to comment on reports of a run-in with the Fascist government in Italy.

Pains In The Back
Tell of deranged kidneys

Pains in the small of the back tell of kidney derangements.

Other symptoms are pallor, loss of weight, dryness of the skin and swelling of the limbs.

Backache is the most certain warning that the kidneys are failing to filter the poisonous uric acid from the blood.

You may also have frequent headaches and aching limbs, for acid poisons always cause bodily pains and aches.

If you want to remove the cause of such ailments, it is advisable to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For half a century they have proven their success as an effective means of restoring the health and activity of the kidneys, the liver and the bowels. It is because of their direct and combined action on these organs that they prove effective when ordinary medicines fail.

Wheat Prospects Are Unfavorable

ROME, Oct. 15.—Wheat prospects in western Australia are unfavorable due to drought, reports arriving at the International Institute of Agriculture said last night. Southern districts promise a better harvest, but more rain is also needed in that region.

PALESTINE JEW PEOPLE MOVE FOR TREATY

Thousands Implore United States to Intervene In Behalf Of People

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15—Between 8,000 and 9,000 Jews in Palestine who are citizens of the United States laid plans today for a conference of all Jewish-American investors in the Holy Land to indicate to the British and United States governments their objection to any restrictions against Jewish immigration here.

At the same time Zionist leaders here were heartened by a flood of telegrams from all parts of North America to Jewish leaders in Washington imploring the United States government to intervene with the British government against threatened curtailment of Jewish immigration.

(The United States state department in Washington said it would "take all necessary measures for the protection of American rights and interests in Palestine." A formal statement said the American government would follow the situation closely. Previously Jewish leaders had appealed to Washington to intercede with Britain to prevent radical departure from the previous Palestine policy.)

DIFFICULT PROBLEM

In the face of this, British leaders unofficially asserted intervention by the United States now could serve only to make the problem more difficult and delicate.

They pointed out that thus far there has been no concrete evidence from London or elsewhere that the British government has decided to restrict immigration to Palestine and that there was nothing to indicate what the finding of the British partition committee would be or what the government would do about it.

THREE-CORNERED STRIFE

Three-cornered strife among the Arabs, the Jews and the British, who govern Palestine under a League of Nations mandate, has been almost continuous since a few years after the Balfour declaration of 1917. In this the British pledged the Jews a national home in Palestine.

Disorders of the last 12 weeks were estimated unofficially to have caused 1,850 casualties, including more than 800 deaths. Four Arabs convicted of participation in the recent attack on Tiberias were sentenced to death by the Haifa military court after a four-day trial.

DUNDEE, Scotland, Oct. 15.—Queen Elizabeth escaped injury here Friday when a heavy block of wood crashed down from a rack and missed her by a few feet while she was inspecting the Lord Roberts Memorial Workshops.

The block of wood fell from the rack in the polishing department when a member of the Queen's party accidentally bumped into it while stepping aside to permit the Queen to pass.

Severe Sentence

MOSCOW, Oct. 15.—The newspaper Soviet Siberian reports N. I. Kulebiakin, a physician at a railway clinic at Prokhladnaya, was condemened to be shot for attempting to creat discontent among railway workers and diagnosing and prescribing incorrectly.

BRITAIN WILL KEEP APART IN NAZI AIR DEAL

LONDON, Oct. 15. — Informed circles last night said there was little possibility of Great Britain entering into any agreement with Germany that would place the British air force on a basis of permanent inferiority to the Reich's air fleet.

These same circles said negotiations for qualitative limitation of air forces on the same basis as international naval agreements might have good chances of success. This would mean limitation by the various powers of specified classes of planes at a fixed level.

Authoritative British quarters declared they had no official knowledge of reports German leaders had submitted to London an unofficial proposal for limiting the number of British airplanes to one-third the German air-fleet.

Name Will Change

BERLIN, Oct. 15—The Sudeten German party soon will lose its identity in the Nazi party, it was announced last night by Konrad Henlein, Reich commissioner for the Udetengrau.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN UPSET STOMACH

Often neutralizing excess stomach acids can make the whole world smile in the morning

To relieve the effects of over-indulgence—escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day—simply do this:

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then—when you wake—take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

That is the quickest, simplest, easiest way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

Electric Power and Coal Mining

To the very end, the production and utilization of Coal is served by Electric Power . . . the convenient, efficient and dependable workman.

Pictured above is a cradle type ELECTRIC BOX CAR LOADER. In this application a quantity of coal is released from a chute into the car, which is then "tilted" to load one end. A further quantity of coal is released and the other end loaded. The centre of the car is then filled. A relatively small motor performs this service quickly and efficiently.

Strong Winds Whip Fort Frances Fire Into International Menace

NEW OUTBREAKS THREATEN U.S. AND MANITOBA

100 Miles Of Bush Country Dotted With Disastrous Blazes

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Oct. 15.—Danger zone of the forest fire menace stretched along the Ontario-Minnesota border line last night with strong southwest winds fanning the slowly fading embers into flames. For more than 100 miles the bush country was dotted with outbreaks.

While Ontario forest rangers battled to subdue stubborn fires northwest of Fort Frances which claimed 20 lives in Ontario and Minnesota, Manitoba fire fighters were summoned to action. United States rangers battled encroaching hazards at International Falls, just across the Rainy River from here.

The fires down on Middlebro, a small town in the southeastern corner of Manitoba, the flames burned through bush just north of the town, and two miles east across the line in Minnesota fires raged.

Rangers and volunteers ushered 100 women and children from the fire territory and four motor trucks were rushed to Middlebro to speed fire fighters against the flames if they break loose into settled areas. Fires have eaten through farmers' hay stacks near Middlebro.

Burning bush spread northward outbreaks occurred in the Lewis, Man., area, 70 miles east of Winnipeg, with the settlement of Sadow endangered. Settlers in the Sandilands forest reserve, 48 miles southeast of Winnipeg, were ready to evacuate their homes. The tinder-dry forests drew the inferno as far as Lac Dubonnet, 70 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

PREVENT FIRES

After a night-long fight, 125 volunteers prevented fires from sweeping through Graham, 100 miles northwest of Port Arthur. The flames also roared through 250 acres in Upsala township, 70 miles west of the lakehead, where authorities believed settlers' burning brush heaps were to blame.

Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario minister of lands and forests, waited at Port Arthur for smoke to clear so he could make a plane journey into Fort Frances, where refugees from the fire zone are being cared for. The minister issued instructions that all resources of his department were to be made available in assisting refugees and fighting the conflagration.

Relief officials cared for 22 families at Fort Frances, 30 women and children at Emo, 40 miles west, and 75 women and children near Stratton, 25 miles west.

FIRES UNDER CONTROL

Provincial police late Friday reported that fires at Devlin, Kingsford township, and Clearwater Lake were no longer threatening settlements. Near Fort Frances flames smouldered in muskeg but the town was in no danger.

In the Sandilands fire zone of Manitoba, the big threat roared about Hadashville where fires crawled to within two miles of the settlement and families prepared to flee unless a change in the wind brings relief.

Six men fought to save their homes in Kingsford Township just west of Dance Township which the flames burnt to a crisp and left 17 persons dead. A forest ranger rushed to Fort Frances with a request food be sent in to the men, determined to remain at the battle till the last hope for their homes was gone.

The Story Of Israel

THE BIBLE—Part I

By GEORGE C. CRUX

Director British-Israel World Federation

This great book so far transcends all others that it is impossible for us to fittingly describe it, yet because we would, that all our people more fully appreciated its VALUE and AUTHENTICITY we shall endeavor to show that as a text book on the fundamentals of life, IT HAS NO PEER. In this we do not mean spiritual life only, but also physical life as we know it, and as we should know it.

G. C. Crux

It is the one source of knowledge by which we may learn the experience of that life which Jesus referred to when He said to the woman of Samaria: "If thou knowest the gift of God, and who it is that said to thee, give me to drink; thou wouldst have asked of Him, and He would have given thee LIVING WATER. The woman saith unto Him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep; from whence then hast Thou that living water? Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his cattle? Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again: but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst; but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life." (John 4:10-14.)

REMARKABLE TREASURE

There are, however, many among us who do not accept the Bible as a reliable authority and to such we request that you refuse to set aside this remarkable treasure which has come down to us through all the depths of darkness that followed in the wake of the destruction of the eastern civilizations wherein Assyria, Egypt, Babylonia, Greece, Rome and other great powers passed into oblivion.

The Dark Ages swept from view practically all records of the past except that contained in the Bible.

HISTORY MADE

In more recent years history has been and is now being restored, and as history is being recovered the authenticity of the Bible is more fully corroborated.

Inasmuch as there are thousands of brethren who have been taught to accept other texts as superior in authority to the Bible in the realm of the source of life and the beginnings of life, we would state that whatever the geological facts may be, it is always possible to raise suppositions to square them either with Creation or with evolution.

We, however, are satisfied that such facts do corroborate creation much more definitely than they do evolution; at the same time we admit that this is not a scientific demonstration of creation, but it is excellent justification for our belief in creation.

Here we feel sure you will agree with us when we state that both Christians and evolutionists must walk by faith, for to walk by sight is impossible without insight not yet vouchsafed to the human family.

There is this remarkable difference, the Christian not only walks (in these matters) by faith but he is conscious of that fact and is accredited for it, whereas the evolutionist walks by faith and is unconscious of that fact.

POSITION SUPPORTED

The Christian knows that his position is supported by this marvelous Book, the Bible, and that it represents itself as being the actual word of God, therefore, the Christian exercising his faith knows that his position is right because he has the Word of God for it.

This Word may be unproven by what we term scientific proof, but the statement is made on the highest possible authority.

On the other hand the evolutionist has nothing better than the unproven speculations of men upon which to base his calculations.

DOGMATIC STATEMENTS

These speculations to him have become dogmatic statements of supposed facts. He does not realize that the Bible tells us of such teachings becoming more or less rampant in the latter days, thus showing the Divine authorship of the Bible, foresaw even this form of attack to be made upon the Grand Old Book.

Harold C. Morton in his "Foreword to the Bible and Modern Science," says: "Major Davies adduces a glittering galaxy of facts from astronomy and physics, showing how the Bible waits at the head of the paths of scientific progress to greet the discoverer with its Revelation of Prior Knowledge.

"The investigator climbs upward through the twilight and finds Scripture illuminating the summit of his climb! It must be bewildering to the Rationalist; but to the Bible Christian it is further and invaluable confirmation of the miraculous trustworthiness of the Book."

We further state that the finding of Major Davies constitutes the greatest possible confirmation of the position of the Christian who accepts the Bible without qualification and without reservation of any kind.

Our need today is exactly the need expressed so often by Christ, FAITH.

CLEARLY SHOWN

If we had faith to accept God at His Word we would be out of our local, national and international difficulties in short order and would devote our time and talent to the higher arts and walks of life and may we say in no uncertain terms that we will never again be out of the mess—until we do accept God's plan and purpose for us and go forward to fulfil our own God-given responsibility; this is clearly and definitely shown us in the Bible.

DOGS

by P. Hamilton Goodsell

THE IRISH SETTER

Of the three varieties of setters the red Irish setter is considered the handsomest; but he is also a first class shooting dog, and a wonderful pal and companion. His origin is obscure. Some hold that the breed was developed from an Irish water spaniel and Irish terrier cross, but it seems more probable that a mixture of English setter-spaniel-pointer blood was responsible, with perhaps a little of the Gordon setter being added from time to time. That this latter breed had something to do with the formation of the Irish setter is evidenced by black hairs appearing occasionally in the red coat. These are now however taboo and will disqualify at shows.

The breed first came to popular notice in the early part of the eighteenth century, and in less than one hundred years its reputation was firmly established throughout the British Isles. One of the first to reach these shores was Elcho, who made a great reputation, not only for himself but for his progeny. He was a great success in the show ring, and an excellent performer as a shooting dog, and was used as such. The earliest dogs of the breed were red and white, or white and red, and it was not until early in the nineteenth century that the solid red began to make its appearance. This would indicate the mixture of the English lavarack and Llewellyn setters. Now the only white permissible is on chest, throat and toes, or a small star on the forehead, or narrow streak or blaze on the nose or face.

The chief differences (besides color) between dogs of this breed and the other setters in so far as appearance is concerned is that the Irish has a long, lean head and somewhat domed skull as compared with his English cousin, and he also stands higher. He is a tireless worker in the field, very seldom getting stiff or sore, and is tough and hardy. He develops slowly, but when once trained on birds, he remains trained as long as he lives, which is usually to a ripe old age. The rich golden chestnut or mahogany red of his flat, glossy coat never fails to attract attention. His many fine qualities of gaiety and his beauty made him an ideal show dog, and so for a time his ability in the field was lost sight of, but of late he has been staging a comeback in this respect.

Mr. Goodsell will be glad to answer letters about dogs, exclusive of of those dealing with sicknesses, if you will write him at Tenure, White Plains, New York. Enclose a self-addressed stamped (3-cent) envelope.

CONTINUANCE OF ACADEMIC LIBERTY URGED

Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe Speaks At Special Convocation Ceremony

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—A plea for the continuance of academic liberty in Canada to ensure untrammelled education "which is the torch-bearer of civilization and the means by which civilized values are communicated throughout the world," was voiced here Friday by Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

Speaking at a special convocation of the University of Toronto at which Lady Tweedsmuir and he received honory degrees, Mr. Lapointe said: "The enslavement of a nation's intellectual life is a disaster altogether beyond assessment. The minds of future generations are starved and poisoned. The menace to the peace of the world would be far less serious if the universities of certain lands had not first been stripped and gagged, and had not been deprived of the precious privilege of democracy, namely the right to dissent."

INSTRUMENTS OF ACTION

"Peace and liberty need instruments of action. The most urgent duty is to give them those instruments through culture, through intellectual and moral courage, and to do so now."

Conflicting currents of thought on political and economic systems have reached Canada, he said, and "it is our duty to keep steady in the midst of those currents."

DEEPLY ROOTED

"Fortunately our free mentality is so deeply rooted in Canadian minds that for the present at least we may not fear that the roots of disorder could be successfully implanted here. Although our institutions are not perfect, they embody our liberties and they safeguard the progress of our national evolution."

Mr. Lapointe said that to preserve Canadian institutions and liberties it is necessary for all Canadians to think nationally, to act constructively and co-operate for the common good.

Social, economic and industrial maladjustments can and should be corrected through reasonable compromises and by ways and means calculated to preserve national unity, he said.

FATHER FOUND ALIVE AFTER THOUGHT DEAD

UNION CITY, Mich., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Isola Bowen of Kalamazoo peered into the casket shortly before funeral services for her father, Will A. Engle, 80, were to begin at a funeral home. She gave a start—the body was not that of her father. A telephone call to the hospital where Engle was a patient established he was still alive. The body was identified as that of W. J. Engle of Adrian, another hospital patient.

"Where Are the Boys of the Old Brigade?"

"Ssh! Keep the children quiet. They're at the door trying to sell us a vacuum-cleaner."

Dog Suffers Agonies of 1,000-Mile Trek to Find Death as Final Reward

WILIAMS LAKE, B. C., Oct. 15.—"Pinch was only a yellow dog but he travelled a thousand miles of northern wilderness to find his master. He died as he reached him, his blood-caked muzzle resting on a slab outside his owner's cabin door.

The homely mongrel, his dirty hide packed with faithfulness, belonged to William Cawkin, 60-year-old gold prospector of Connelly Creek about 200 miles north of here.

Last August Cawkin visited an old friend, Daniel Burley, trapper and hunter of Fox Creek in the Alberta Peace River country. Burley wanted "Pinch" and Cawkin reluctantly parted with him, and returned home alone.

One cold night last week with a bitter north wind blowing outside, Cawkin from his bunk heard a scuffling outside. He thought perhaps it was a skunk.

But next morning he found instead his dog, dead, torn and emaciated from a trek over rivers and mountains and through tearing brush and rock. One frozen paw pointed toward the closed door.

Cawkins said today the animal must have travelled 1,000 miles to make the distance of 700 miles as the crow flies.

He buried "Pinch" under a wooden cross and carved on it, "Greater Love Hath No Man."

Stork Derby Contestant Is Being Probed

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Without appearing in court, Mrs. Lillian Kenny was remanded for another chiatric hospital. The militant mat- week Friday, in care of the psy- ron, who gained notoriety and $12,500 consolation money from the Millar stork derby, was arrested on a charge of arson, Oct. 6, following a fire in her home for the third time within a few weeks.

City Church Activities

BISHOP WRITES OF SPAIN'S WAR

Bishop Gannon of Erie, who is Episcopal chairman of the press department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, United States, visited Spain and explains his purpose as follows: "Before entering Spain I purged my mind, as far as possible, from all partizanship. My visit was the kindly one of a Christian churchman, seeking the truth about the Christianity of Spain and the attitude and procedure of the Church in the crisis." He tells us about his contacts with representative people in Nationalist Spain and he had a long conference with the American ambassador. Before giving particulars he makes the following general observations: "Naturally in so bitter a struggle, there has crept into the news a large amount of propaganda that is false and colored information to sway American public opinion in favor of one side or the other." Also: "The complete and hopeless failure of the Reds to destroy the Spanish Church." And the following: "Perhaps no country in the world is so fervently Catholic as Spain."

HIGHLANDS TO HOLD SERVICES

Pre-anniversary services are being held at Highlands United church on Sunday. Dr. Charles Endicott, of Saskatoon, will preach in the morning on the Quarter Million Fellowship Crusade which is being launched by the United church throughout the Dominion.

Dr. Endicott recently has been appointed head of the missionary and maintenance fund. This office is one of the most important offices of the United church and has been ably filled by Rev. Peter Bryce, D.D., who has retired from service.

The evening service will be conducted by the minister of the Highlands church, Rev. J. W. Smith, whose subject will be Living by the Promises of God.

The 26th anniversary services will be held on Sunday, October 23rd, and Monday, October 24. Rev. R. W. Dalgleish, of Claresholm, president of the Alberta Conference, will be the guest preacher.

BLIND SPEAKER LEAVING CITY

Scotland's blind Evangelist, Rev. Neil McIntyre, brings to a close a very successful campaign which he conducted at the Buelah Tabernacle, corner of 98 street and 107 avenue. Monday October 17 at 7:30 p.m. he will give his life story, weaving into it a cruise round Scotland in the mission yacht, Albatross. This story always draws large crowds. There were 1500 packed the First United church of Vancouver last month and many turned away when this story was given. It is crowded with adventure, humor and pathos. The Albatross yacht was well known round the coast of Scotland, and for 12 years Mr. McIntyre was one of the crew. Although blind, he had to do his part aboard the yacht such as scrub decks, polish brasswork, row the dinghey to and from the shore, and even do a bit of cooking when the crew was depleted during the World war. Mr. McIntyre's next campaign will be at Regina.

Visiting Pastor at Knox Church

President J. H. Riddell, LL. D., of Wesley College, Winnipeg, and formerly principal of Alberta College will be the guest speaker in Knox Church on Sunday evening. The general public are invited to this public address on Sunday night at 7.30 o'clock.

NOTED SPEAKER COMING HERE

At the meetings of the Edmonton-Peace River, Baptist Association, in the First Baptist church, Edmonton, on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 18 and 19, Dr. Orville E. Daniel will be guest speaker. Dr. Daniel, who has served on the Canadian Baptist Telegu Mission Field at Vizianagram, India, will deal with his work there with special reference to his own publications in Telegu in the field of religious education. He will address the Women's Missionary Conference on Wednesday afternoon as well as the mass meeting on Wednesday evening.

The Tuesday evening meeting will take the form of a Young people's Rally when Rev. J. A. MacRae, Superintendent or Home Missions, will deliver the address on the theme: "On the Road to Tomorrow."

On Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Chas. G. Stone, of Edmonton will bring the report from the Vancouver Convention of the Baptist Union of Western Canada on "An Adequate Ministry."

UNITED CHURCH PARLEY RECALLED

Toronto and its big circuit enjoyed the benefits of the recent meeting of the General Council of the United Church of Canada. Next time, namely in 1940, it will be Winnipeg. There were many things happened worthy of being passed on to the ends of the Dominion. The keynote was sounded by the retiring Moderator, Dr. Peter Bryce, in an address which reached the highest note of loyalty to Christ and His Church. Everybody will speak about the public demonstration of Missions—the night when the jubilee of entering Honan was celebrated and the audience stood as a tribute to the veterans who were present; and the Home Mission night when "the sky pilots" were called, among them a city girl now "lady of the manse" away "back of the beyond." Losses will be remembered as well as gains. Since the last meeting about 150 ministers fell from the ranks and the leadership by death. Words were not sufficient to describe their characters and their works. Notwithstanding the glowing story of the triumph of Missions and the unparalleled opportunities, the treasurer had to demand cuts in the grants.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

At all Christian Science churches next Sunday, the subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Doctrine of Atonement." One of the Scriptural quotations in the Lesson-Sermon is Hebrews 5:8, 9. "Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered; And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him." One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, is: "The trials encountered by prophet, disciple, and apostle, 'of whom the world was not worthy,' await, in some form every pioneer of truth." (p. 28).

Crescent Furniture Store Celebrates 26th Anniversary

This week marks the 26th anniversary of the Crescent Furniture Limited—one of Edmonton's pioneer furniture stores.

Growing from a small store on 97th street to one of the most modern stores in the west is quite an accomplishment and testifies to the energy and enterprise of the management.

Mr. Podersky, president and sales manager, started the business in a modest way on old Namayo ave., now known as 97th street. At that time Mr. Podersky specialized in auctioneering and conducted many successful sales throughout the district. The store was established in the year 1912 when Edmonton boasted a population of 50,000, the same year that Edmonton and Strathcona amalgamated into greater Edmonton.

FOUNDER

L. PODERSKY,
President and Sales Manager of the Crescent Furniture Co., Ltd., whose enthusiasm has been a great factor in the success of the business.

After 12 years of successful business the firm found it necessary to enlarge, therefore in 1924 Mr. Podersky purchased the Greenfield Furniture Exchange located at the corner of 98th street and Jasper ave. At this time Mr. H. L. Baltzan joined the firm as secretary-treasurer.

During this period Mr. Podersky inaugurated the credit and budget plan for the benefit of those customers who could not afford a large outlay of cash, particularly young married couples just starting out in life. Thus the slogan "Make your own terms" was originated.

This plan met with instant success, and in order to further improve Crescent service to the customer the management decided to establish a plan whereby clients could secure a credit on their old furniture when purchasing new merchandise. This met with such hearty response it was found necessary to open an entire floor to take care of the "trade-in" business—now one of the features in the basement floor of the new store on 101st street. The "bargain basement" affords a means to the purchase of quality [illegible] furniture to those who felt they could not afford new furnishings—and also as a convenience for the furnishing of summer cottages, etc.

The [illegible] enjoyed the patronage of [illegible] from all over the city and from all country points. As time [illegible] they added many new departments and featured the [illegible] [illegible] an entire floor could be completely furnished at one [illegible].

The Crescent Furniture always found time to join in the sports program of the city. They were responsible for many winning clubs in hockey and baseball and the staff bowling teams have always been in the championship class. Mr. Podersky is at present the president of the Commercial 10-Pin Bowling league for the third consecutive year.

In May, 1935, the Crescent moved to the premises now occupied. Desiring a more central location to offer customers greater convenience—and larger premises for the display of modern furniture, they took over the premises vacated by the Army & Navy Department store on 101st street. Now the store features one of the finest and most complete displays of modern furniture in the district.

A very complete line of well-known and nationally advertised lines are carried, including General Electric radios and appliances, DeForest Crosley radios, the famous Parkhill chesterfield suites, studio lounges, mattresses and other sleeping equipment, Clare Bros.' coal and gas ranges, the well-known Wedgewood English dinnerware and other equally established lines.

A credit department is maintained, enabling customers to pay a little a week and furnish their homes at a very little outlay of cash. Mr. H. L. Baltzan, as secretary-treasurer, is in charge and is responsible for the easy terms, one of the features of Crescent service.

The staff of the firm has been steadily increasing and the same staff was carried throughout the depression. Now numbering 25, they provide a service that is as quick as it is courteous.

There is maintained an efficient sales department, most of whom have spent a lifetime in the furniture business in England, the U.S., and Canada, and know their business thoroughly.

BUSY EXECUTIVE

H. L. BALTZAN,
Secretary-Treasurer of the Crescent Furniture Co., Ltd.

Other departments operated are radio technical shop, a stove repair department, a cabinet making and polishing department, upholstery shop, and a two-truck delivery service.

The Crescent make it a point to keep [illegible] with the latest trends in quality furniture [illegible] [illegible] the very newest in furniture [illegible] Crescent—the store that sets the pace.

Wedding Rites Performed At St. Andrew's

At half-past eight o'clock on Friday evening a pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church which united in marriage Ellen Dorothy McCormack, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. S. G. McCormack and Walter John Lake, youngest son of Mr. E. Lake and the late Mrs. Lake of Leduc.

Rev. F. D. Roxburgh, D.D., officiated at the ceremony, and the wedding marches were played by Miss Wilma Muir.

White chiffon velvet fashioned the exquisite frock worn by the bride for her wedding. Made on simple lines, her frock had a high neckline with an Elizabethan collar and short sleeves, with which she wore long white gloves. A fingertip length veil of white net fell from a Juliet cap adorned with lilies-of-the-valley, which she wore on her head. She carried roses and carnations in her bouquet.

Mr. McCormack gave his daughter away.

Wearing a lovely frock of robin's egg blue taffeta, Mrs. Stanley Lake, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, attended the bride. In her hair she wore a small blue cap from which streamers in pink fell down the back. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Stanley Lake supported his brother as best man.

Ushering guests to their pews were Messrs. Harold Currie and Malcolm Brodie.

Following the ceremony a reception to 200 guests was held in the Oddfellows' Temple. To receive, Mrs. McCormack was smartly gowned in black crepe and lace. Her hat was a small model in black velvet and she wore a corsage of red carnations.

Dr. Roxburgh proposed the toast to the bride.

On their return from a short motor honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Lake will make their home in Leduc. To travel, the bride wore a becoming frock in rust, with Harris tweed top coat and accessories in rust.

Marjorie Noble Scores In First Recital Since Her Return From Europe

With the backing of Robertson church Women's Auxiliary, Marjorie Noble, pianist, appeared in recital at the church on Friday evening—her first since returning from six years' study in Vienna—and registered a genuine triumph. The main auditorium of the church was well nigh filled with an audience that displayed appreciation of the young artist embarking upon her concert career, an appreciation manifest in the presentation of a large number of bouquets half way through the concert and again at the end.

Miss Noble was an accomplished pianist prior to going to Vienna and at that home of fine music she was afforded ample opportunity of adding to and expanding her talent.

FLATTERING ATTENTION

She selected a difficult and lengthy program, but the fact that attention was maintained until the end and that several encores were required before the audience agreed to go home, testified to the appreciation of Miss Noble's playing.

Miss Noble's program was varied and would have sustained interest on this count alone.

Starting off with Bach's Fantasia in C Minor she passed on to Beethoven's Sonata in E Minor, opus 90. Then in the next group were Chopin's Nocturne, opus 27, No. 2, and Etude, opus 10, No. 8 and Liszt's Etude in D Flat. Then came Scriabine's Nocturne for left hand alone and Ravel's Sonatine, 3rd movement: Reger's Silhouette; Sauer's Espenlaub and Echo de Vienna.

Miss Noble played with forcefulness, immediate and sustained when the occasion demanded. In her more elaborate numbers there was a tension in the atmosphere which was scarcely ever relaxed. The vitality of her playing was most commendable and indeed was an admirable feature of the entire recital. At times she might have relaxed a little, but doubtless was most anxious and certainly in this respect she merits the highest praise.

QUIETER NUMBERS SPLENDID

In her quieter numbers she excelled, there being a sweetness to her tone and a smooth-flowing style that calls for high praise. At all times the delineation of the melody was meticulously attended to and a careful balance was maintained between melody and other parts.

The ease with which she played and the facility with which she essayed even the most florid passages proved refreshing.

She made a charming picture at the piano.

Musical circles hereabouts could well do with more recitals of this type and the sponsoring group share in the success of the venture. In continuing her career, Miss Noble carries with her best wishes for the journey along the concert-artists' road. —J.O.

the social round . . . . .

IGNORANCE is indeed bliss when it comes to reading detective stories. At least their entertainment value is often seriously diminished by persons with as keen perception as that of Canada's Governor-General who always discovers the murderer on the first page. Addressing a luncheon meeting arranged in Barrie, Ontario, recently, by the local Women's Canadian Club, Her Excellency, the Lady Tweedsmuir, described her husband as "too clever" in reading detective stories.

Continuing, she admitted a fondness for such stories herself but said she felt if people read too many of them they would be destructive to the mind.

"Some regard reading as a means of escape. That accounts for the popularity of detective stories which are often called the fairy tales of grown-ups. Detective fiction has grown into a colossal industry," Lady Tweedsmuir stated.

In conclusion she said reading habits should begin in youth and it is more important for the child to learn to read in the home than to use school libraries.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have an aunt and united family up till this and [illegible] as I am her only relative. But the trouble is that I am a poor man with six children, living in a small house that is already crowded and as my aunt has never been around children very much I am sure they would get on her nerves. Besides this, my wife is so opposed to hav[illegible]

Answer:

There is only one intelligent thing to do and that is to tell your aunt that you cannot agree to the arrangement she suggests as you believe that every family should live by itself without any outsider coming into that charmed circle.

[illegible] facts with which she is familiar, but which she has apparently forgotten. One is that no house is big enough to hold two women. Especially [illegible]

The other fact your aunt should also bear in mind is that no elderly woman who is unused to children could spend a month with six modern youngsters without driving them mad and acquiring an incurable case of nervous prostration herself. Their noise, their restlessness, their incessant coming and going, their dirt and disorder, everything they did and didn't do would get on her nerves and keep her in constant protest against the way they were being reared. Their manners, the way they dressed, the laxness of their mother in not bringing them up in the way she was brought up would pall on the aunt.

Surely your aunt must see these things and if she has any sense at all she will stay in her own home [illegible] protection against the children where she will have freedom to do as she pleases and some work to keep her hands and mind occupied.

At any rate, don't let her come to [illegible] don't delude yourself by thinking it will be for a short time. Sixty-nine isn't old in these days and a healthy, strong woman of that age is likely to be here for a good long stay.

RAILWAYS ARE BOGGED DOWN SAYS EXPERT

Principal Of Queen's Tells People Faults Of Canadian System

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Although far from obsolete, Canada's railways are bogged down by excessive competition from other rapidly-developing modern transportation services, Dr. Robert C. Wallace, principal of Queen's University, told a Toronto service club Friday.

He asked for establishment of a Dominion Transport Commission, "with all the powers the government and people can give it," to co-ordinate and relate transportation services.

MUCH OPPOSITION

"With airplanes, busses and other means of travel, it is sound principle to stop and consider the limitations of each particular type of transportation," Dr. Wallace said [illegible]

[illegible] ery in Europe, it would very much [illegible] France to invoke collective strength at Geneva. Laval, however, did his work too thoroughly, and there is no effective League any longer to invoke. One thinks of the remark of Coleridge about being wounded with an arrow which, on extraction is found to have been taken from one's own quiver.

Dr. Wallace visioned a gradual change taking place in Canada's northern wheat-producing areas, where farmers would depend less on wheat exports and push other products, thus becoming more self-contained within Canada by developing home markets.

Dr. Wallace said acreage of world wheat today was much too large for the demand. He referred to Canada's "very serious wheat price situation" and said the problem of the west's surplus must be faced by easterners, because "we are to a large extent dependent on western Canada."

Highest temperature for the city Friday was 48 above at 3 p.m. The average temperature 37.5 Friday was 3½ degrees lower than the average temperature a year ago the same day.

Weather in the near north was reported early Saturday morning to be generally cloudy and calm with a light shower falling at Grande Prairie. Temperatures in that area ranged from 20 at Keg River to 30 at Sexsmith and McMurray. Low temperature in the far north was 20 at Fort Norman.

Scouting News

Biggest event in scouting activity for the fall months, the Edmonton district-wide scout games were held on Thanksgiving Day, October 10th. The competition is an innovation this year but will become an annual event for scout troops in the city. A heavy enrolment of 17 teams entered the games, each team consisting of a patrol of six scouts from the following city scout troops: the 2nd Edmonton, St. Faiths troop, the 5th Edmonton, Jewish troop, the 6th Holy Trinity troop, the 15th St. Stephens troop, the 25th Christ Church troop, and the 27th, St. Joachims, French Canadian troop.

TESTS MADE

Tests were made all along the course. On the first piece down Jasper avenue the scouts were given an observation trial when they were asked to record in their log books the names of stores with sleeping bags for sale. Each team was also asked to record where they saw the picture of the chief scout, Lord Baden Powell, on this stretch of their journey. At the outset they were given a picture of the sundial above the Commercial Chambers Building and asked to identify it. They were also given a photograph of the Survey Bench Mark on the Market Square which they were asked to identify.

Standard Service Station Now Improves Facilities For Motorists

Extensive Changes Are Undertaken to Give Better Work

Harold Boyle and Dan Carrigan, co-owners of the Standard Service Station on 102 street half a block north of Jasper, today announced extensive alterations and additions to their popular servicing plant. Keeping astride of all the latest improvements new equipment has been added to the present facilities and patrons of the station can look forward to increased accuracy and precision in the servicing of their cars.

Among the equipment added is the very latest type "Ekonomist," a highly sensitive and accurate machine for checking tune-up jobs. Motorists patronizing the Standard Service Station can now be assured that when they go in for a tune-up the motor will be tuned to the highest degree of perfection. The Ekonomist checks the exact time the ignition occurs, the condition of the battery, coils, condenser, cylinder compression and sets the generator.

THOMASES HOLD DAVIS-CUMMINGS TEAM TO DRAW

Soldier, "Bad Boy" End Robust Go Alone

SIXTY minutes of wrestling, a thorough test of endurance producing every hold and counter-hold written in the wrestling book, failed to result in a triumph in last night's team match at the Memorial Hall. It was the feature bout of the evening, pitting Soldier and Spinner Thomas against Bob Cummings and Dizzy Davis.

Four wrestlers started the best... [illegible]

Last night's card featured clever and for the most part clean wrestling. George Hartay scored the most scintillating triumph as he won the semi-windup event against Tarzan Potvin by taking one fall. In the preliminary bout an airplane spin and body press won for Larry Jacobsen against Graham Nelson.

McLemore Makes Study Of Traditional Rivalries

By HENRY McLEMORE

British United Press, Exclusive to the Edmonton Bulletin

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A love for tradition is as thoroughly woven into the fibre of my being as the love for laziness, au gratin potatoes, and dogs that bark when the house catches on fire.

Because of this I have been making a study of the traditions that are back of the country's many intersectional football games.

There is a need for such a study, for while almost everyone knows the background of the battle between Michigan and Minnesota for [illegible] and why [illegible] struggle for the "Old Oaken Bucket," and Stanford and California for "The Axe," few persons are familiar with the reasons for rivalry between dozens of [illegible]

JUST WHY?

[illegible] Temple and Texas Christian [illegible]

Or why Georgia and Holy Cross fight so bitterly each year for "The Dough?"

Then there are Alabama and Southern California for "The Long Green," and Kansas and George Washington for "The Lettuce," and Detroit and North Carolina State for "The [illegible] Ink," and South Carolina and Xavier for "The Frogskins," and Fordham and St. Mary's for "[illegible]"

The first and most obvious reasons for these games is the geographical proximity of the schools involved. Take Alabama and Southern California, which are located at neighboring Tuscaloosa and Los Angeles, respectively. These two towns are just a stone's throw apart, and have much in common. Both have dentists' offices, drug stores, double feature movies, and fire departments.

And the striking similarity doesn't end there. Park by a fire plug in Tuscaloosa and it costs you $2. The fine is the same in Los Angeles.

Ask a Tuscaloosa man where the best climate in the world is and he'll answer "right here in little ol' Tuscaloosa." Ask a man the same question in Los Angeles and he'll answer "right here in little ol' Los Angeles."

So, what could be more natural than the schools of these two towns should get together and play?

Temple and Texas Christian, my [illegible]

[illegible] drawn into a beautiful relationship because Buck Shaw, Santa Clara coach, is vitally interested in the study of wild animal life. Unable to gain first hand knowledge of a razorback hog in California, where the zoos strangely lack one of these fine animals, Shaw hooked a game with A[illegible]

[illegible] also true of Colgate and Duke. Washington and Minnesota [illegible] game afforded any of the Washington players interested in the manufacture of flour a [illegible] opportunity to see how it was made.

And so on down the line through all the intersectional rivalries.

If my research does nothing more [illegible] for commercial reasons how wrong they are, then I will be more than [illegible]

Golden Bears Hope For Grid Triumph Today

Coach Bill Broadfoot's Varsity Golden Bears entrained Friday night for a week end trip to Saskatoon to tackle the U. of S. Huskies at Griffiths [illegible] Saturday.

Both the Huskies and Golden Bears have played one game in the western inter-collegiate conference for the Hardy Cup, which the Huskies now hold. Alberta's chance of winning the league is now impossible, as they only play three games this year to B.C.'s and Saskatchewan's four.

However the Golden Bears' hopes are high for the coming game, knowing that their condition has improved since their luckless effort against the B.C. Thunderbirds.

Saskatchewan will play Alberta [illegible]

Golden Bears [illegible] VanKleek, Store[illegible] middles, L. Wilson, Smith, M[illegible]man; ends, McDonald, O'Meara, [illegible] Wilson; halves, McKay, S[illegible], Thorbaison, Fitzgerald, Treleav[illegible], Stokes, McCallum, Walford. K[illegible] Clarke, manager, and trainer George Casper will accompany the team.

JEWS BANNED FROM BAR IN NAZI GERMANY

BERLIN, Oct. 15—Germany followed up a recent ban on Jewish doctors today by barring Jews from the practice of law.

A decree published in the official Gazette ordered Jewish attorneys to get out of the Bar Association by Nov. 30. In recently-annexed Austria the licenses must be withdrawn by Dec. 30, with exceptions.

The order provided that the deletion of names of Jews from the Vienna Bar Association may be suspended temporarily in the case of World War front-line soldiers whose families have resided in Austria at least 50 years.

Middle age is the time when a man would rather go without a good time than have to get over it.

A Bulletin Short Story Complete On This Page Every Saturday

THE temperature was [illegible] high [illegible] the city [illegible] [illegible] stagnant and reeked of petrol. The traffic shrieked [illegible] the din of a [illegible] Yet Her[illegible] film actress, [illegible] rapture as she gazed at the [illegible] street.

She had just left the Old Bailey where she had been on trial for murder.

"[illegible] back [illegible] a waiting taxi. "I want to walk. I want to feel free."

"And you want to escape the cameras, [illegible]" he asked. "Directly the [illegible] find out we've [illegible] they'll be swarming [illegible] through this alley."

Herm[illegible] it was not her real name, but she had grown used to being called by it—leaped [illegible] into the cab.

"This seems all queer and wrong somehow," she said in a troubled voice, as [illegible] drew down the blinds. "You've always tried to get me [illegible]"

"Not this kind of publicity, my dear."

"[illegible]"

As [illegible] herself [illegible]

"Will [illegible] career?"

"I'll tell you that later," he replied. "There's a clause in your contract which covers [illegible] they [illegible]"

"[illegible]"

"Yes, you've been very [illegible]"

"Lucky [illegible] luck. But I [illegible] talk about [illegible] must forget."

In spite of her determination, as she sat [illegible] closed eyes [illegible] by unhappy memories. She had been a victim of the most damning circumstantial evidence that [illegible] could contrive against an innocent person. [illegible] together to [illegible] of [illegible]

She had [illegible] West end flat, expecting to find a cocktail party. Instead she found her host, lying on the floor, shot through the heart.

The shock was so severe that she was instantly [illegible] when she incriminated herself with every possible indiscretion. After she had left her blood-[illegible] to testify against her and further advertised her [illegible] by dropping some personal property, she ran away. Later she was numbed to a state of mental collapse when her memory could not function properly. . . . She had endured weeks of torturing suspense. She had lost all hope. She had gone through hell.

Today, she was free. And [illegible] in the first flush of liberty, she faced a new threat, the ruin of her career.

SHE WAS ONLY A STARLET

Although she was only a starlet, she was rising steadily in her profession. It absorbed her to the exclusion of other interests, so that she could not contemplate life apart from the studio.

"If I'm going to be thrown out," she said, "they might as well hang me and call it a day."

"Keep your chin up," advised her agent.

Luckily, there was no further call on her fortitude. When they reached the offices of the film company, the personage who controlled Hermione's destiny received her with a smile and extended hand.

"This is splendid [illegible]" he said. "Now don't begin to cry. I want to discuss your new picture."

After this [illegible] to break the news that, although she could not play lead, he might use her in a [illegible] would come later, if she [illegible]

"Best to let some of the mud settle," he said. "We [illegible] the public. That chap [illegible] character."

Although the [illegible] for the defence had demonstrated the [illegible] nature of Hermione's [illegible] with the murdered financier, she knew that it was impolitic to protest. She was forced to eat crow while the chief [illegible]

"In future, [illegible] offences, no more shady friends. We may have to sell you again to the public. Remember, even the smell of a second scandal would finish you. And now, what about taking a real holiday out of the public lens?"

"Switzerland is quiet in the summer," suggested the agent.

"Fix it [illegible]. Good-bye, my dear."

Although she was dismissed, Hermione lingered to ask a question.

"You do believe I'm innocent?"

"Of course . . . only don't do it again."

His words rang in her ears, making her unduly sensitive to the congratulations of her friends.

The next afternoon, when she boarded the Continental express at Victoria, she felt acutely self-conscious because her departure was so purposely inconspicuous.

ABUSE WAS EXHILARATING

The first week slipped quickly and happily away. After her long ordeal, she was grateful [illegible] be alive amid such [illegible] peace. No one recognized her or asked for her autograph. Most of the guests at her hotel were drifters—stopping for only a night or two.

Wearing shorts and dark sunglasses, she spent her time alone—either climbing steep wooded heights to reach an "aussicht," or mooning beside the jade-green river. Presently, the solitude which had been so healing to her shattered nerves began to lose its [illegible] fit. With restored bodily health

The [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] It seemed to her [illegible] she was still [illegible] not [illegible]

It was [illegible] struck by lightning [illegible]

She had grown to need to regard herself [illegible] as a [illegible] one [illegible] Their first meeting took place [illegible] she barely noticed the [illegible] young man, with [illegible] Scotch [illegible]

AFRAID OF THE PAST

Presently the [illegible] were [illegible] larger distances [illegible] reached a desolate area of [illegible] where the river flowed [illegible] the lake. Near its outlet stood a small white [illegible]

"Aren't you Hermione Heath?"

[illegible]

"I was fatuous with [illegible] You [illegible] up everything as though [illegible] Surely you know [illegible]"

"No," Hermione gasped. "W-what are they?"

"First, [illegible] Second [illegible] Haven't you read [illegible] thrillers?"

"No."

"Then [illegible] have mercy on [illegible] I wrote them. And what's the good of me trying to educate the public when [illegible] deliberately [illegible]"

His abuse was [illegible] to Hermione and exhilarated her [illegible] from the [illegible] Here, at least, was one who [illegible] she really was [illegible] but [illegible]

Hermione answered his questions with real relief. In spite of his blunt words [illegible]

"What is your real name?"

"Amy Parker."

"Hermione wins with me. My name is Andrew Mackintosh. It ought to [illegible] I'm staying at your hotel, although you've not noticed me."

"I've [illegible] thinking of—"

"I [illegible] You've [illegible] thinking of [illegible] Hermione Heath. You've got to [illegible] Don't [illegible]"

"Should I?" Her voice was startled. "What's wrong with it?"

"Definitely nothing. But I know I should get dead sick of mine splashed all over the screen."

"I don't. I'm clear on that point anyway. Film acting is under my skin and it's also my big gamble. I spent my last shilling in dramatic training. It's mighty important for me to [illegible]"

"I understand. In fact, this holiday must put you together again. But it won't, unless you forget everything [illegible]"

During a [illegible] of perfect weather which followed their first meeting they spent most of their time in the open air. With the object of giving her no time to think, Andrew ruthlessly [illegible] pampered starlet [illegible] He made her eat plain picnic lunches, perched on a boulder beside some boiling glacier-fed river.

"You get to know a person better in one day spent in the country than if you met her in drawing [illegible]"

Although she could not hear, at that moment Hermione suddenly shivered as though a [illegible] had [illegible] memory of the [illegible]

"Don't look like that," said Andrew sharply.

"I can't help it," she confessed. "I'm afraid of the past. But I am more afraid of the future. That terrible thing happened to me [illegible] could happen again."

"It can't. By the law of averages it is impossible. Lightning never strikes the same place twice."

"That's not true. I remember [illegible] about a woman who had [illegible] a winning ticket in the previous draw. When you consider the [illegible] sible. But it happened . . . Andrew, why did this happen to me?"

"[illegible]" he replied. "If we had only soft pleasant experiences we should [illegible] to spiritual slugs. [illegible]"

"But all I did was to crash. I'm ashamed. I'm so used to being directed—told to do this or that . . . Oh, Andrew, I'm going to miss you."

That evening, she went with him to the station. While they waited for the train, she looked so unhappy, that he tried to cheer her.

"I shall be at Victoria to meet you soon. We're not going to let this drop, are we?"

"I shall count the days."

"Good." His face grew suddenly [illegible] "Hermione, I've [illegible] the last, you [illegible] once. Scram—disappear [illegible] and leave no trace behind."

"I promise. But [illegible] won't happen [illegible]"

"No. You [illegible] suggesting it. You see, you couldn't risk a second show-up."

"No, I should be finished in films."

Defeat Alberta University Speakers In Spirited Arguments

Man is still master of his fate despite the efforts of the University of Alberta debaters to prove otherwise when they met the world touring Australian debaters Friday evening in Convocation Hall arguing on the resolution: "Resolved that man is the master of his fate."

H. R. W. Robson and F. F. Thoneman received the unanimous decision of the three judges, Dean G. M. Smith of the faculty of arts, Rev. Ross Cameron and H. A. Dyde when they met the Alberta representatives, Morris Shumiatcher and Burt Ayre, supporters of the negative. The debate was held under the distinguished patronage of Col. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor, with Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, president of the university, presiding.

Furthermore he has the [illegible] of choice, otherwise he would be a mere machine that performed mechanically, operated by some abstract force.

If his fate was set it would be possible [illegible] have [illegible] forces [illegible] as both the affirmative and the negative, according to the [illegible] advanced by the negative, would be arguing the same [illegible].

Little Orphan Annie
TWO WEEKS HAVE PASSED SINCE THE NIGHT ACE CHANCE WENT TO HIS HEROIC END TO SAVE JACK FROM CERTAIN DEATH---TWO WEEKS SINCE THAT MIDNIGHT, WHEN GUDGE, WITH A PISTOL IN HIS HAND AND MURDER IN HIS HEART, WENT TO THE ORCHARD, EXPECTING ACE TO BE WAITING THERE-
ODD I SHOULD BE THINKING SO CONSTANTLY LATELY OF MY CALEB- I DREAMED OF HIM AGAIN LAST NIGHT- HE SEEMED SO HAPPY- AS IF HE HAD THE SORT OF SECRET ONE CHUCKLES OVER-
AND LATELY I HAVE THOUGHT I FELT HIS PRESENCE IN THE ROOM, SOME TIMES- IS IT THAT I AM GROWING OLD? AH, ME - THIRTY YEARS AGO LAST SPRING-
THIRTY YEARS AGO- IT WAS I WHO FOUND HIM THERE--- IN THE ORCHARD, BY THE OLD WELL- MY POOR CALEB- IT SEEMS BUT YESTERDAY-
SO LITTLE REALLY CHANGES- THE OLD ORCHARD, JUST THE SAME- EVEN THE OLD WELL. TILL SHANGHAI STARTED FILLING IT- SHANGHAI- HE'S A GOOD MAN- IN MANY WAYS HE REMINDS ME OF CALEB-
MY CALEB WAS QUIET- THE QUIET OF A DOZING VOLCANO- I KNOW HE HAD BEEN VIOLENT IN HIS DAYS AT SEA-- VIOLENT AND TERRIBLE, BUT ALWAYS JUST- AND THE MEN WHO SAILED WITH HIM WERE THAT SORT, TOO-
BUT I GUESS SHANGHAI NEVER KNEW MY CALEB- HE'D HAVE MENTIONED IT IF HE HAD---AH, AND HE'D HAVE BEEN IN A RAGE TO TRACK DOWN MY CALEB'S MURDERER--- BUT AFTER THIRTY YEARS THERE ARE NO TRACKS-
NO TRACKS? THERE ARE TRACKS ON THE SOUL OF SUCH A MURDERER---YES- AND SOMEHOW I FEEL THAT SUCH A CRIMINAL'S PUNISHMENT IS CERTAIN-
CONSCIENCE? PERHAPS NOT--CHANCE? LUCK? JUDGEMENT? WHO CAN SAY? BUT LATELY, DREAMS OF MY CALEB, SMILING TO HIMSELF--- AN OLD WOMAN'S WHIMSIES PERHAPS---
BUT IN SOME STRANGE WAY I AT LAST FEEL THAT MY CALEB IS AT PEACE--- HIS IDEA OF JUSTICE SATISFIED--- HIS CRUEL DEATH AVENGED-

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! I'M TELLIN' YUH, IT'D GIVE YUH CHILLS, TOO, TO HEAR HER- SHE'S BEEN HAVIN' DREAMS OR SOMETHIN' AND SHE FIGGERS WHOEVER GOT CALEB HAS GOT HIS!
EH? HM-M-- WHOEVER GOT CALEB? WHY, AS YOU AND I KNOW, THAT WOULD BE GUDGE-
SURE! THAT'S JUST IT- COURSE SHE CAN'T KNOW THAT! BUT IF HER HUNCH IS RIGHT WE'LL NEVER HEAR FROM GUDGE AGAIN-
HO! HO! JUST A FANCY, NO DOUBT- OH, I'M SURE GUDGE WILL BE HEARD FROM AGAIN- POSITIVE OF IT-

MONEY! MONEY! MONEY! MY WIFE SEEMS TO THINK I'M MADE OF MONEY!
SHE KNOWS I MAKE ONLY A SMALL SALARY AND I MAY LOSE ME JOB ANY DAY, BUT DOES THAT KEEP HER QUIET? NO!
"GIMME TEN DOLLARS! GIMME TWENTY MORE! GIMME FIFTY!" WHAT DOES SHE CARE? IT'S BEEN LIKE THAT FOR TWENTY YEARS NOW-
I TELL YOU, THE WOMAN FAIR DRIVES ME CRAZY-
TCH! TCH! AND WHAT DOES SHE DO WITH ALL TH' MONEY YE GIVE HER?
DO WITH TH' MONEY I GIVE 'ER? HA! I'M NOT THAT CRAZY- I NEVER GIVE 'ER A DIME-

THIS CURIOUS WORLD
by William Ferguson
FEET!
MOTHER NATURE USED MANY PATTERNS IN FASHIONING THE FEET OF HER CREATURES TO FIT THEM FOR THEIR MANY WAYS OF LIVING.
THE LONG TOES OF THE JACANA ALLOW THIS BIRD TO RUN LIGHTLY OVER LILY PADS, IN SEARCH OF WATER INSECTS.
THE SLOW-MOVING SLOTH CANNOT EVEN STAND ON ITS CURVED CLAW-FEET, BUT THEY SERVE ADMIRABLY AS HOOKS, BY WHICH THE ANIMAL HANGS IN A SUSPENDED POSITION THROUGHOUT LIFE.
THE OSTRICH IS THE ONLY TWO-TOED BIRD IN EXISTENCE, AND ONE OF THESE TOES IS DISAPPEARING.
FLIES HAVE A MOST CURIOUS MECHANISM ON THEIR FEET, WHICH ENABLES THEM TO CLING IN ANY POSITION, TO ANY TYPE OF OBJECT.
HOOFS OF THE REINDEER SPREAD OUT UNDER PRESSURE AND ACT AS SNOW-SHOES!
ELEPHANTS, ALTHOUGH APPEARING FLAT-FOOTED, ACTUALLY CARRY THEIR WEIGHT ON THEIR TOES! THE CENTER OF THE FOOT IS ONLY A FLESHY CUSHION.

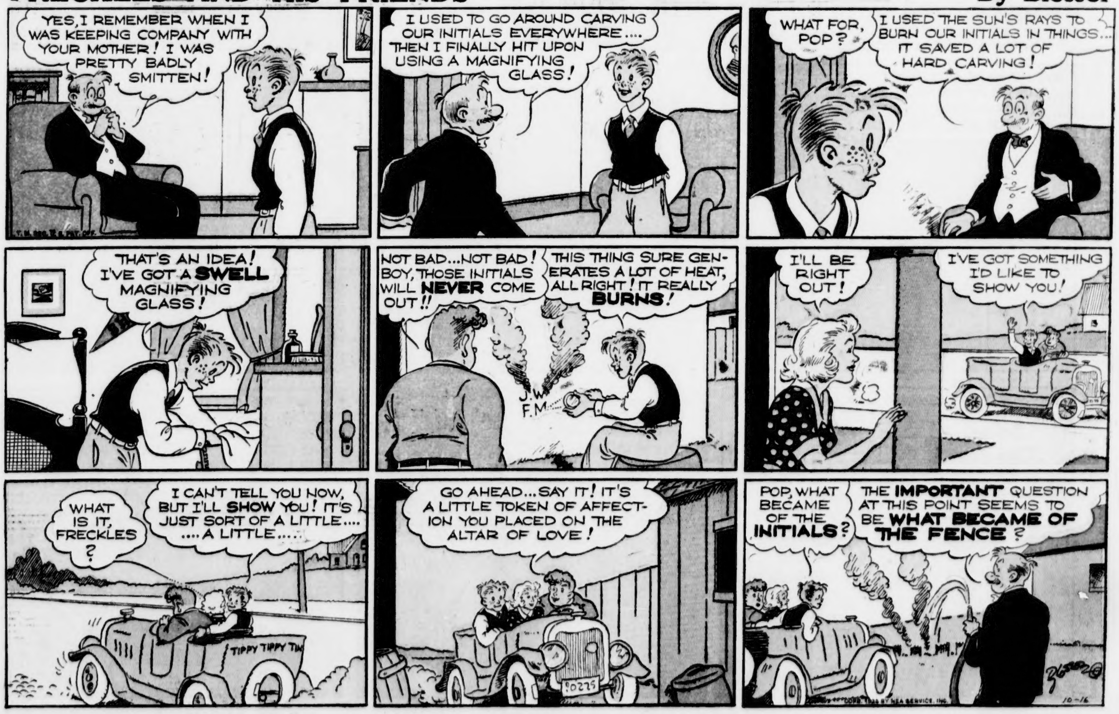
FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

By Blosser



YES, I REMEMBER WHEN I WAS KEEPING COMPANY WITH YOUR MOTHER! I WAS PRETTY BADLY SMITTEN!
I USED TO GO AROUND CARVING OUR INITIALS EVERYWHERE.... THEN I FINALLY HIT UPON USING A MAGNIFYING GLASS!
WHAT FOR, POP?
I USED THE SUN'S RAYS TO BURN OUR INITIALS IN THINGS... IT SAVED A LOT OF HARD CARVING!
THAT'S AN IDEA! I'VE GOT A SWELL MAGNIFYING GLASS!
NOT BAD...NOT BAD! BOY, THOSE INITIALS WILL NEVER COME OUT!!
THIS THING SURE GENERATES A LOT OF HEAT, ALL RIGHT! IT REALLY BURNS!
J.W.
F.M.
I'LL BE RIGHT OUT!
I'VE GOT SOMETHING I'D LIKE TO SHOW YOU!
WHAT IS IT, FRECKLES?
I CAN'T TELL YOU NOW, BUT I'LL SHOW YOU! IT'S JUST SORT OF A LITTLE.... ....A LITTLE....
TIPPY TIPPY TIN
GO AHEAD...SAY IT! IT'S A LITTLE TOKEN OF AFFECTION YOU PLACED ON THE ALTAR OF LOVE!
POP, WHAT BECAME OF THE INITIALS?
THE IMPORTANT QUESTION AT THIS POINT SEEMS TO BE WHAT BECAME OF THE FENCE?

“This old world of ours is full of strange people; strange animals; strange facts and strange fancies. Old Mother Nature works wisely and well, but sometimes her ways are too deep, too Curious for us to fathom. DICK TRACY
By Chester Gould
THE PLANE IS ALL LOADED WITH GAS DRUMS, KARPSE. YOU AND YOUR LADY FRIEND MAY TAKE OFF ANY TIME YOU ARE READY.
FINE, DOCTOR, FINE.
BUT FIRST — BEFORE YOU LEAVE FOR YOUR VACATION IN BOVANIA SHALL WE SPLIT THAT MILLION DOLLARS THE BOVANIAN GOVERNMENT FORWARDED BY MISS HALONE IN PAYMENT OF THE ORDER?
I DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU, DOCTOR. THE MONEY IS TO ARRIVE LATER.
WE KNOW YOU'VE GOT 100 TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR NOTES IN YOUR POCKET, GIVEN TO YOU BY HER WHEN SHE ARRIVED. WE KNOW THAT YOU'RE LEAVING HERE NOW WITH THE INTENTION OF NEVER COMING BACK.
YEAH, KARPSE, THIS IS JUST YOUR WAY OF GETTING OUT OF THE POISON GAS BUSINESS AND LEAVING US HOLDING THE BAG, EH?
QUICK! OUT WITH THOSE BANK NOTES!
VERY WELL! INTO THIS ROOM, GENTLEMEN, WHERE WE HAVE A TABLE.
SLAM!
STOP! HE'S TRAPPED US. THIS IS THE EXPERIMENTAL ROOM.
THERE, GENTLEMEN! TASTE A SAMPLE OF THE GAS WARRING NATIONS ARE BEGGING FOR.
HISS-S HISS-S
TO THE PLANE! AND TURN BACK FOR NO ONE!
MEANWHILE, APPROXIMATELY A QUARTER OF A MILE UP THE MOUNTAIN SIDE, A FIGURE SITS WITH FIELD GLASSES AND A WHITE FLAG.
THERE'S THE SIGNAL FROM PAT, JIM, LET'S GO!
REMEMBER, GENTLEMEN. KARPSE IS HEARTLESS. IF HE KNEW I'D ESCAPED FROM HIS FACTORY AND WAS SQUEALING ON HIM, HE'D HUNT ME DOWN IF IT WAS THE LAST THING HE EVER DID.
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright, 1938, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.
AS KARPSE'S MACHINE LEVELS OFF AND HEADS INTO THE EVENING SUN, A SMALLER PLANE, ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN, ROARS UPWARD IN PURSUIT
GET THE TRAP DOOR OPEN AND THAT WIRE NET READY! WHEN WE GET INTO POSITION WE'LL HAVE TO ACT FAST.
THERE ISN'T AN AIRPLANE PROPELLER IN THE WORLD THAT CAN WITHSTAND THAT.
